State Fair Mishap Kills Three Persons

Over 30 People Injured

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Two men plunged 100 feet to their deaths Saturday when a prop railing tore loose from the roof of the Illinois State Fair grandstand. The railing crushed to death another man below.

Falling debris injured five persons, one critically. They were taken to St. John's Hospital.

Another 30 persons suffered lesser injuries and were given emergency treatment at the fairgrounds first aid station.

Torn Loose
Sangamon County Coroner W. C. Telford said the rail was torn loose by a rope stretched from the grandstand roof to the infield of the race track.

The rope was to be used by the Green Berets, a special service force, for demonstrating Viet Nam combat techniques at the fair.

The two men who fell from the roof to their death were Glen Robert Lockwood, 37, of San Bernardino, Calif., and Dale R. Mueller, 45, of Overland, Mo.

An eyewitness account of the tragedy appears on Page 16. Section one of today's JOURNAL-COURIER.

Both men were operating cameras on the roof. Lockwood was employed by Dick Wallen Inc., of Arcadia, Calif., which films auto races. Mueller, known as a top race photographer, was past president of the St. Louis Auto Race Fans Club.

Fatally injured by the falling wood and metal rail, 15 feet long and 7 feet wide, was Ralph Heger, 65, of Springfield, a fairgrounds electrician and stage manager.

Ronald W. Drewett, 21, of Springfield, was listed by St. John's Hospital as in critical condition.

Telford said a tow truck driver had just pulled the rope taut under the direction of a Green Beret when the section of railing gave way. It landed in the first row of the grandstand and the back row of the reviewing stand which projects in front of the grandstand.

"It would have been a lot worse if the section had fallen straight down," Telford said.

Race Spectators
The accident occurred as more than 15,000 persons waited for the start of the 100-mile automobile race.

Gov. Otto Kerner was on the grounds and came to the scene. An eyewitness who barely escaped injury was Dominic C. Giacomini, 32, of Springfield, (Turn To Page 13)

Quake Toll Climbs Into The Thousands

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—More than 100 new earth shocks rolled across eastern Turkey Saturday in the wake of a village-wrecking earthquake whose toll rose into thousands of dead and injured. One sharp new tremor brought down 50 already damaged ancient buildings in Erzurum City, center of the disaster area, killing two persons.

The semi-official Anatolia news agency reported Saturday night that 2,300 dead had already been counted and that the toll was rising steadily as rescue teams worked deeper into devastated areas.

In the Varto area alone, workers counted more than 2,000 bodies. "I fear that the death toll has surpassed 3,000," said Hasan Kafaci, Varto's community chief. Workers in Varto worked feverishly to clear debris from where the schoolhouse once stood. Muffled cries of children came from beneath it.

A multinational rescue operation was under way.

U.S. Aid
U.S. military forces in Turkey under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization joined the Turkish army in an effort to speed money, medicines, doctors and relief supplies to the stricken area from many nations.

U.S. Air Force planes flew all kinds of supplies to devastated areas. Britain offered a 20-man team of Civil Defense workers trained in earthquake-relief work. The Greek Red Cross dispatched medical and other supplies. Donations of money came in from Pope Paul VI and President Charles de Gaulle of France. The Italian government ordered relief funds established.

Ali Akarsu, governor of Erzurum Province, said 29 villages in the Hinis district had been wiped out and 2,077 dwellings had crumbled to dust.

Prime Minister Suleiman Demirel and four Cabinet ministers flew from Ankara to the quake area for personal inspection of the desolation.

The earth buckled and broke in a catastrophic wave Friday that tore across the provinces of Erzurum, Mus, Bingol and Bitlis in eastern Anatolia near the borders of the Soviet Union, Iran and Iraq.

Farmers, rural workers, women in simple peasant homes and children in classrooms stumbled in panic and fell as buildings crumbled on top of them.

The most powerful shock pounded through the town of Varto, where 3,000 persons lived.

Money-Tightness At Near-Record Level

WASHINGTON (AP)—The tight-money picture tightened another notch this week, and the outlook is for more of the same at least in the immediate future.

Interest rates — the price borrowers pay for money — are now at record or near-record levels, and pressure for further boosts will undoubtedly intensify before easing up. A combination of factors will make September a key month.

The Johnson administration, at this point, plans no drastic moves to roll back rates. One government source said such a switch in policy might do more harm than good, considering the delicate nature of the problem.

Tax Hike?
But the door has been left open for a possible tax increase, partly to help pay for the rising costs of the Viet Nam war, and to help dampen inflation by cutting off some of the consumer demand for goods and services.

"It's still an open question," one administration source said Saturday in emphasizing that no decisions had been made yet.

A request to Congress for a tax increase, however, is more likely to come next January, if it comes at all, when the administration is expected to seek more money — possibly $5 billion to $6 billion — for the Viet Nam war.

Housing Rights Leaders Decide To Resume Marches In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Civil rights leaders decided Saturday to resume open housing marches in Chicago and to extend them to suburbs, including Cicero.

They also determined to wage a legal fight against an injunction putting limits on their parades within the city.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who is captaining the campaign, announced he will lead a march Sunday into the South Deering district on the Southeast Side. The area embraces Trumbull Park, scene of racial friction five years ago.

He said demonstrators also will go to the offices of real-estate boards in several suburban communities on the southern and southwestern fringes of the city. He did not name them.

Cicero Next
"We will march in Cicero next Sunday, Aug. 28," King told newsmen after a steering committee meeting.

Riots broke out in Cicero—a western suburb made up largely of white homeowners—in 1951 after a Negro family tried to move into an apartment. National Guardsmen brought it under control.

King was asked if he expected violence in Cicero.

U.S. Strength In Viet Edges Up To 297,000

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The roll of U.S. armed forces in Viet Nam, expected to approximate 400,000 men by the end of the year, edged up to 297,000 Saturday. A battalion of 800 fresh troops arrived from Ft. Carson, Colo., and joined the 1st Air Cavalry Division.

South Korea's commitment also was rising. A spokesman said 700 men of the Korean White Horse Division were in the country to prepare for its arrival next month. The White Horse vanguard landed earlier this week, along with 2,900 replacements for the Tiger Division, which entered the war last fall.

War operations of the day included two Viet Cong attacks: — Two terrorists exploded three hand grenades at the entrance of a U.S. noncommissioned officers club in Da Nang. Metal fragments and flying glass injured eight U.S. servicemen, one seriously, and six Vietnamese women. One of the terrorists was shot and captured two blocks away, the other was captured on the club grounds.

— A Viet Cong company, disguised in the uniforms of government Rangers, attacked two Vietnamese platoons only 12 miles from Saigon. A government spokesman said the Viet Cong had inflicted moderate casualties. One guerrilla was reported killed.

Elsewhere, the Communists were largely on the receiving end in scattered ground operations and intensive air attacks.

Fly 20 Strikes
U.S. Air Force F100 Super Sabres and F4C Phantom jets flew 20 strikes in support of Australian infantrymen hunting 40 miles southeast of Saigon for remnants of a Communist battalion the Aussies had mauled Friday in their biggest battle of the war.

The Red battalion, which spokesmen initially identified as a 600-man Viet Cong unit, turned out to be a reinforced North Vietnamese army battalion now estimated at more than 1,000 men. This was the farthest south that Hanoi regulars are known to have penetrated. The body count of their dead rose to 227.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander, congratulated Maj. Gen. Ken MacKay, the commander of Australia's 4,500 men in Viet Nam, on the showing by the 800 or so involved in the four-hour battle — the 6th Battalion and Company D of the 5th Battalion of the Royal Australian Regiment.

"Your troops have won a most significant victory over the enemy and one of the most spectacular in Viet Nam to date," Westmoreland said.

In other sectors, U.S. Marines reported killing 11 Viet Cong Friday night in the Cam Lo River Valley, and South Vietnamese militia men said they had accounted for 100 of the enemy in a two-day sweep in Thua Thien, a northern province of which Hue is the capital.

113 Missions
In the air war, U.S. Air Force and Navy pilots flew 113 missions over North Viet Nam Friday, despite heavy rain storms, hammering fuel storage areas and transportation facilities in the southern panhandle and Haiphong area.

Briefing officers said flights of Thunderchiefs, Starfighters and Phantoms had pounded seven fuel storage areas in the panhandle, setting off six secondary explosions and more than 15 fires.

Navy pilots bombed and strafed a camouflaged 10-car freight train near Thanh Hoa. Pilots said they had destroyed the locomotive and five cars and damaged two other cars. Another flight silenced an anti-aircraft battery 21 miles southeast of Haiphong.

In psychological warfare American planes dropped 1.6 million pamphlets in the Vinh area warning the North Vietnamese that inflation is one result of war and that the Hanoi regime might devalue its currency.

The pamphlets bore facsimiles of the North Vietnamese one-dollar note, the dong is currently valued at about 15 cents.

Saturday's air operations included the fourth strike of the week by B 52 jet bombers at Communist holdings in Tay Ninh Province, adjoining the frontier of Cambodia. The targets were a suspected enemy troop concentration, and a supply depot, 55 and 65 miles northwest of Saigon.

Rebuilding was under way at Hoa Vang, the Vietnamese village near Da Nang where the crash of a U.S. Marine F8 Crusader jet on its takeoff Wednesday killed 29 civilians, wounded 11 and destroyed 74 homes.

Marine and Navy units are handling the reconstruction work with the help of Vietnamese volunteers.

In Saigon, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said half a dozen crewmen of the seagull tug Comanche, including two Americans, have been fired for petty black market operations. The tug, owned by the Alaska Barge & Dredging Co., of Portland, Ore., handles barge traffic at Nha Trang, on the South China Sea 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

The spokesman made his report in denying charges printed in Saigon newspapers of gun running by an American ship.

ASK POSTPONEMENT IN TOLL BOOST
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has been asked by 49 members of Congress to seek an agreement with Canada postponing for one year a proposed 10 per cent increase in St. Lawrence Seaway tolls.

In a letter to Johnson, 15 senators and 34 House members said this is needed to give Congress sufficient time to act on legislation proposed by Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., and Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., which would make the toll increase unnecessary.

The legislation would reorganize the seaway's financial structure and thereby ease the heavy financial burden placed on the Great Lakes waterway by the 1954 St. Lawrence Seaway Act.

Johnson Prescribes 'Self-Discipline' For All Americans

LEWISTON, Maine (AP)—President Johnson prescribed Saturday for the nation "a strong dose of self-discipline" in order to carry on in Viet Nam, bring racial peace and social justice at home, and to maintain a strong, prospering economy.

The President said in a talk for a late-afternoon appearance in the City Park at Lewiston there would be racial strife in America until there was "a domestic good-neighbor policy on every block in every city."

He said that because not all businessmen and labor leaders had used restraint and self-discipline, there was "a real danger to the prosperity we have enjoyed for almost six consecutive years."

He warned in generalities that unless there were restraint and voluntary self-discipline now, "your government will be compelled by sheer necessity to take action."

Dangers of Excess
"On every front," Johnson said, "the dangers of excess are real: in our cities, excess decay; in our streets, excess violence; in our economy, excess indifference to the public interest."

"In each the answer is voluntary self-discipline. And that is the duty of every citizen."

This was a sort of sum-up speech at the end of two days of touring five Northeast states on what had many of the trimmings and trappings of a campaign expedition.

Johnson got a heavy hand from his listeners crowded around an old-fashioned, bunting-draped town bandstand when he bore down on the line about a strong dose of self-discipline.

The crowd applauded, too, when he said this is needed to carry on "and support our men who are in the rice paddies of Viet Nam tonight."

Deeply Concerned
When the President said that every day that he opens his office he is going to be deeply concerned by rising prices — "I try to do as much as I intelligently can about them" — another wave of applause rolled out under the towering elms and maple trees.

Once more, as he did Friday in New York State, Johnson shared public attention with senators and congressmen and governors, and they included Republicans as well as Democrats. But there was little mistaking that he was hoping to get some Democratic benefits to carry over into the November balloting.

Still, he sprang a surprise birthday party aboard his jet Saturday morning for Republican Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, 74, with everybody joining in at least a semimustical "Happy Birthday To You."

This was on the way from Ellenville, N.Y., to Rhode Island for the first of a series of addresses on a long day — at the State University in the village of Kingston, 266 years old.

The Lewiston speech touched topics he had covered in more detail at Kingston and later at Manchester, N.H. — racial difficulties and the problem of Viet Nam.

HUAC Sees Reds Behind Protests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Communists are behind extreme anti-Viet war movements and legislation is needed to curb them, members of the House Committee on Un-American Activities agreed Saturday after four stormy days of hearings.

"It is clear the key leadership of these groups is made up of hard-core Communists acting in behalf of foreign powers," said Rep. Joe R. Pool, the pudgy Texas Democrat who wielded the gavel during the tempestuous week.

Fills Gap
Rep. John H. Buchanan, R-Ala., said legislation before the committee to punish anti-war acts "fills a gap in the law and is needed for the sake of our fighting men in Viet Nam."

Pool is chief sponsor of the legislation, aimed at persons who block the movement of men and materials or who raise medical supplies or blood for the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong. It carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison and a $20,000 fine.

Pool predicted the committee will approve it this week and that the House will go along.

"I think Congress is very receptive to this legislation," he told a reporter.

During the investigative phase of its hearings, which saw repeated uproars in the vast caucus room and the outer of more than 50 persons for causing disturbances, the committee heard nine witnesses.

Three "friendly" witnesses laid down the committee's case against leaders and groups who have engaged in anti-war activities.

Tells Activities
Phillip A. Luce, for example, testified about his activities in the Progressive Labor party and the May 2nd Movement between July 1964 and January 1965 before he said he became disillusioned and quit.

He said the May 2nd Movement, named for the date of its first demonstration against U.S. policy in Viet Nam, was controlled by the Progressive Labor party, which he said is a pro-Peking group expelled by the U.S. Communist party for "leftist deviation."

The committee then called two persons who acknowledged they were members of the Progressive Labor party and were active in the May 2nd Movement — Jeffrey Gordon and Richard Mark Rhoads, both college students from Brooklyn, N.Y.

Gordon, who was tossed out during Luce's appearance for standing and yelling, "Let's stop this fink testimony!" said collecting blood and medical supplies for the Viet Cong "is in the best humanitarian tradition."

5 Struck Airlines Resume Operations After 43 Days

NEW YORK (AP)—The air-travel industry and businesses dependent on it moved quickly toward normal operations Saturday in the wake of an agreement ending the biggest airlines strike in history.

Mixed with the long-absent roar of jets in many cities were signs of relief from businessmen weary of rows of empty restaurant tables, half filled hotels, slowed deliveries and transportation bottlenecks.

Smooth Transition
The five major airlines shut down for 43 days by a Machinists union strike resumed service smoothly during the morning hours. Little crowding was reported, although reservations were heavier than usual for a Saturday.

The agreement approved by 35,400 striking workers Friday at better than a 2-1 majority shattered White House guidelines designed to limit wage hikes to 3.2 per cent a year.

Benefits in the new three-year contract include an estimated 6 per cent or more annual wage increase totaling 15 per cent over three years, plus a cost-of-living guarantee against sharply rising prices that could be worth up to six cents more per hour in the final year.

As top-rated mechanics, whose average $3.52 an hour will jump to at least $4.08 within three years, counted their benefits, businessmen across the country, particularly those in or directly affected by the tourist industry, began to add up their losses.

Hardest Hit
Hardest hit appeared to be the cities that count heavily on summer tourist trade or summer conventions. The New York Convention and Visitors Bureau estimated a half-million-dollar loss to the city each day during the strike's first week, and three-quarters of a million each day thereafter.

Hotels were hit with 25 per cent of the loss, the bureau estimated, retail stores absorbed another 25 per cent, 20 per cent in the sightseeing industry, and the rest was spread among theaters, nightclubs, transportation and other pleasure-oriented services.

The Hawaii Visitors Bureau estimated the island state's losses at a minimum of $13 million and said there was a loss of 22,000 visitors in August alone.

Miami, which was looking forward to a best-ever summer tourist season, estimated losses in the metropolitan area alone at $2 million a day.

Viet Nam: The Dry Run

Chant Is 'Bong The Cong Right Away'

GRIZZLED ARMY VETERANS painstakingly show recruits how to disarm VC booby traps. Some say the Army is overcomplicating the war.

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
(Last of a Series)

FORT BRAGG, N.C.—(NEA)—The company of soldiers was double-timing through an immaculate battalion area. They wore fatigue pants and tee shirts. And over the steady footfalling of combat boots they chanted:

"Gotta go.
"Gotta flury.
"Win the war.
"In a hurry."

The setting, the atmosphere, even the uniform cut of the troopers are no different than past years of military training. But the war they chant about is. In 1944 they chorused against "the kraut." In 1952 it was "the gook." But now:

"Work hard.
"No play.
"Bong the Cong.
"Right away."
Not China, nor Russia, nor even communism as a whole. It is the Viet Cong who is the GI's enemy today and he is reminded of it in every waking moment.

Slogan signs ("Whip the Dip in Southeast Asia") are displayed on every military post in the nation. Jungle combat photos are tacked to every barracks wall. Maps of the battlefield are in every Orderly Room. Commanders stress it, instructors stress it, sergeants and team leaders stress it. Viet Nam, Viet Nam, VIET NAM!

So much is it stressed, in fact, that many observers, including privately speaking combat veterans, believe that such a big push is widely unrealistic.

Those opposed to the trend point out that Viet Nam is only one of the 43 foreign nations the United States is pledged to defend... and that nation's 15 million people are only a fraction of the 882 million in the world who rely on our combat power.

Says one: "Remember. Germany and Korea are still boiling."

Adds another: "What good will jungle training do if Russia drops the bomb?"

Yet despite such opinions, the armed forces in general and the Army in particular are emphasizing Viet Nam to a degree unknown in the history of limited warfare.

Entire enemy villages, for example, have been constructed at several stateside bases. These hamlets are impossible to determine from the real thing. Booby traps, underground tunnels, even the pig pens and wandering cattle of Southeast Asia have been included in the "on the scene" training.

Viet Nam movies are being shown in the classrooms. Viet Nam weapons are on display in the boondocks. Viet Nam languages are being taught. Viet Nam customs being explained. And Viet Nam thinking is being pounded home hard:

"Sir, what are my chances of going to the war?"
"Do you pray, son?"
"Yessir, I do."
"Well, I'm afraid it won't help at all."

Even weapons planning is being affected. Viet Nam vets are dissatisfied with the standard M-14 rifle and are pumping for more of the lighter, shorter shooting M-16s. As a result, 302,000 more of the latter have been ordered (for a total of 488,000) and thinking it may soon phase out the other.

But, in final analysis, all of this is quite understandable. Because of Viet Nam the Army has bloated by 185,000 men in the past year. Because of Viet Nam, the military is receiving several billions more spending dollars than ever before. And because of Viet Nam, the armed forces of the United States have grown to over three million strong.

Clearly, Viet Nam's what's happening right now. Not Germany, not Korea.

As one GI put it the other day:

"Why do you think they're feeding us all this rice?"

New Sound Brings Fame To Trumpeter, Brass Band

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) "I don't seem able to get caught up with success," said Herb Alpert. "I'm not used to it."

"My goal isn't to make money — it's to find out what life is."

But at 29, Herb, whose dark sideburns and matador build make him look like the late Rudolph Valentino, is riding a golden avalanche.

The slender trumpeter and his famed Tijuana Brass Band will gross, he figures an estimated $32 million this year as the result of breaking the sound barrier.

Herb, who has been blowing the trumpet since he was 8, first experimented with the new sound in a Los Angeles garage in 1962. But it was a full two years before the sound really caught the national fancy.

"There have been a lot of new musical sounds, and you can never in advance really put your finger on one that the public will take to," said Herb.

"But perhaps people were tired of protest music. Ours has a happy sound."

Perhaps Alpert himself was subconsciously looking for a happier sound. One of his chores during a two-year stint in the Army had been the playing of "Taps" at funeral services. Some days he blew this mournful farewell salute as many as 18 times at military cemeteries.

His six-man band has made six albums of which 11 million recordings have been sold.

One of his two firms, the A & M Record Co., expects a gross of $30 million during 1966. His other firm, Tijuana Brass Enterprises, should gross better than $2 million from the band's concert and television appearances.

Herb and his bandmen next month invade Europe and England — home territory of his friendly rivals, the Beatles — and plan to make a movie early next year.

"It's nice to be occupied," said Alpert, a family man who actually prefers to stay home. "I can remember the time when I had nothing to fill my time and could goof off whenever I wanted to. I was miserable."

His tremendous success has had little visible effect on Herb. He has bought two new cars. But he lives in the same home and is investing his income to provide for the security of his two children.

N. GREENE BOARD HIRES 3 TEACHERS

WHITE HALL — The School Board of the North Greene Unit spent some time Monday night at their meeting with the problem of teachers for the ensuing year. Contracts were approved for three teachers, Mrs. Neetia Lee, third grade in Roodhouse; Miss Connie Clutts, physical education at the North Greene High School; Mrs. Patricia Finnell (until Dec. 22nd) to teach at the Roodhouse school.

Mrs. Helyette Jones was approved to work in the North Greene Junior High School cafeteria. The tentative budget was given to the Board by Supt. Springs, and approval was given to have the budget available to public inspection for the next thirty days.

Big expenses will include administration $31,500; instruction (teachers' salaries, books etc.) $591,000; lunch program $94,000. With the $25,000 on hand at the beginning of the fiscal year, the educational fund will come close to breaking even at the end of the year.

Registration for the high school will be held during the week ahead. White Hall Elementary students will register at the White Hall school on Aug. 24th, and students for Patterson and Hillview schools will register the first day of school.

All White Hall children, kindergarten through the 5th grade are requested to register between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Book rentals and insurance fees will be paid at this time and each child must be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Mr. and Mrs. David L. Coker, former faculty members at Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind. have assumed new duties at Wisconsin State University.

Mac Residence Hall Nearing Completion

A new residence hall for men and remodeling in portions of two other buildings will be completed on the MacMurray Campus before new students arrive September 10.

The new men's residence hall, located on the south campus, should be finished by the end of this month, according to E. Clarendon Smith, business manager of the college.

A new biology laboratory is being finished in the MacMurray Hall. Also being moved into that building is the language lab, last year housed in the lower level of the Henry Pfeiffer Library.

Harker Hall, a residence hall adjacent to Main Hall, will be used by freshmen women this year. Since 1959 men have occupied the hall. New paneling, light fixtures and ceilings are being completed on the second floor of that Hall. Long range plans call for all five floors of Harker to receive this interior face lifting. Fifth floor was paneled last year. Rooms on the other floors are being painted and will be ready for school opening.

In the new men's residence hall blue is the accent color. It is carried from the entry walls and lounge furniture and is used as a highlight color in the built-in furniture featured in the individual rooms.

Carpets are being placed this week in the corridors, draperies are to be hung next week and all the furniture for the rooms has been delivered. The carpet was incorporated to have better sound control, ease in maintenance in addition to providing a more attractive and comfortable living area. Air conditioning is a new feature incorporated in this residence hall.

Designed by the architectural firm of Smith, Kratz and Associates of Urbana, the hall will accommodate 148 students and a faculty apartment. R. D. Lawrence Co., Springfield, is the general contractor on the building.

Three Jacksonville firms had contracts for major portions of the construction work. Doyle Plumbing and Heating did the mechanical work; R. W. Roach Co. had the plumbing contract and Gano Electrical Contractors had the electrical contract.

Two old residences were demolished on the campus to make more room around the new building.

Wood Products Among Cass Export Items

BEARDSTOWN — One of Beardstown's small industries which gets little publicity but which makes its contribution to the economy is the Virginia Forest Products Company, Inc., located on old route 67 between Frederick and Beardstown.

Russell Snyder, who came here from Petersburg 12 years ago, is the sole owner and manager. Eight persons are employed in the operation.

The output includes high grade lumber for furniture and other uses, and the utilization of low grade lumber in the manufacture of wood skids or pallets which are utilized in loading operations at many larger factories using fork lifts.

Two sizes of skids are made here — 43 by 54 and 43 by 63.

$250,000 Museum On U. S. History Here Aug. 26-27

The Miniature Museum of American History, a traveling display valued at $250,000, will visit Jacksonville this Friday and Saturday, August 26th and 27th. The unusual museum, housed in a specially-built mobile unit, will be located in Central Park on the Square and will be open to the public free of charge from 9 a.m. until 10 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

The Miniature Museum will be brought to Jacksonville by Elliott State Bank, as a highlight of the bank's centennial celebration. Board Chairman F. Osborne Elliott commented that the bank is sponsoring the museum visit because of its unique presentation of American history which can be enjoyed by people of all ages.

The museum was created by Randall Publishing Co., of Washington, D. C., and represents more than three years and 150,000 man hours of work. It consists of 35 dioramas, or three-dimensional displays, each depicting a scene from American history. More than half of the displays are animated, providing life-like motion, and all include narration. The figurines are one-tenth life size and are authentic in their costumes and accessories.

Most spectacular of the displays is a glittering ballroom scene with all 35 presidents of the United States and their wives costumed in their inaugural attire. The First Ladies' gowns are perfect replicas of their inaugural dresses. Even their jewelry have been reproduced in one-tenth scale. Some of the Tiny garments and accessories are valued at more than $200.

The museum covers American history from the voyage of Columbus to the flight of the astronauts. Other scenes include the signing of the Declaration of Independence, designing the American flag, the invention of the cotton gin, and Thomas Alva Edison working in his laboratory.

"We hope everyone in Jacksonville and throughout our area will be our guests and 'take a walk into history' when the Miniature Museum comes to the Square this Friday and Saturday," Mr. Elliott said.

Record Crowd At Patterson Chicken Fry

PATTERSON — Despite the heavy rainfall the day before, the morning of August 11th dawned bright and clear, and one of the largest crowds ever to attend one of the Patterson picnics in the past twenty six years was present to partake of the bountiful meals, which are served family style in the school gymnasium. A total of 2,269 meals were served at the dinner and supper hours, and the hot dog stand also did a good business as well as the refreshment stand. 1050 pounds of fish were fried, and 1674 pounds of chickens. Forty baking hens were prepared for the many dishes of noodles and dressing. Between three and four hundred pounds of potatoes went in to the making of delicious potato salad, and other dishes of bean, salad, cole slaw, apple sauce, and pie or cake completed the meal. While the net amount of the proceeds has not yet been released the gross amount was $6,706.20, including donations. This will go for the upkeep of the three local cemeteries, Pine Tree, Patterson and Rawlins. Entertainment for the event was furnished by the Midwest Rangers, Bands from North Greene and Carrollton and the Lester Family.

The colored television was awarded to Mrs. Ruby Young of Hillview, and the refrigerator went to the Watts family, in Jacksonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Louise Cox and Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Vestel of Ennis, Texas, arrived Friday evening for a few days visit with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Goodwin. Mr. Cox and Mrs. Vestel are nephew and niece of Mrs. Goodwin.

Rev. John Acree of near Winchester will be guest speaker at the Wilmington Baptist Church, Sunday, August, 21st for both morning and evening service.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bigham of Neponset spent from Wednesday until Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Fariell Bigham.

Mr. and Mrs. Cam Crabtree visited Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crabtree and sons. The Paul Crabtrees have moved from the farm near the pump station to a farm northwest of Winchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ballard, daughters, Kay and Mary and son, Danny attended a family gathering Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kallal, in Jerseyville.

Mrs. Nona Owdon and Harry Nash visited Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Nesbitt, in Beardstown. Mrs. Nita Reynolds of Pittsfield visited Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hubbard.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
An Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "They make such a big deal about putting on a television show," scoffs sleepy-eyed Dean Martin. "Meetings, meetings, meetings all the time. Me. I do it the easy way."

Martin method of staging a variety hour so shocked the sweat-and-strain laborers of the TV vineyards that all were predicting his way pointed to disaster. But Martin won the battle of the ratings and will be bouncing back on NBC with another 30 hours in the coming season.

"I've got writers, director, producer. I let them do what they're supposed to do. I go to the studio at 1 on Sunday afternoon and I'm out by 9. That's all there is to it," Martin explained.

Martin makes everything seem easy. He already has six TV shows completed and is now starring in another Matt Helm romp, "Murderer's Row." He is also slated for a Western with George Peppard at Universal and a comedy with Stella Stevens at Columbia.

He is casual about his present prosperity: "I made three million dollars last year and only left the house four times."

He is jesting about the latter, but the three-million figure could well be accurate. He reports that his first Matt Helm epic, "The Silencers," grossed $12 million and he owns 10 percent. That plus his other films, the TV show, records, his appearances in Las Vegas and elsewhere put him in the same tycoon class with his pal Frank Sinatra.

Martin's daughters, Gail and Claudia, have careers of their own. And son Dino is a teen-age smash with his Dino, Desi (Arnaz) and Billy combo. They play a number in "Murderer's Row."

"The kid makes a lot of money," says his admiring father. "Now he wants to buy a Ferrari, even though he can't drive it yet. He's only 15. When I was his age, I was trying to buy skates."

His entire family picture is satisfactory, said Martin, with one exception: "If I could only get my mother-in-law to work!"

Hungry Poachers The Least Of Melon Growers Problems

By VIRGIL REITHER
BEARDSTOWN — Hungry youngsters sneaking into a field late at night lusting for the heart of a juicy watermelon are no longer the chief menace to a bumper crop of one of Beardstown's main products.

This may have been the case 25 years ago but raccoons and crows do more damage these days.

"I can't blame teen aged boys for the losses I suffer on watermelons," a leading grower said here this week as the late harvest began.

"It is crows and coons that do the damage and there isn't much you can do about the pests," the farmer continued, unless you want to stay in the patch all night.

Russell Meredith, Cass County farm adviser, says that the late crop this year, due to a May 9th freeze, made it necessary to replant cantaloupes, and that this as well as the long dry spell made the watermelon and cantaloupes two weeks late.

"The crop probably will be cut 25 per cent," Meredith said Saturday and another result is that growers have only enough melons now to supply their stands. This means truckers do not get the melons they want and will not get them until later in the season.

Growers Ranks Decrease
Cass County has between 40 and 50 growers today as compared to probably 150 a few years ago, Meredith said. This is due to the fact there is so much hand work connected with the crop.

Among the principal watermelon growers in Cass County are Ed Morgan and son, Jack Harris, John Bottens, Phillip Krohe, Darrell Tegeder and a number of others.

Many of the growers operate their own roadside stands and while they do sell some to truckers they would rather "cut out the middle man" by selling direct to passing motorists.

Prices are based on an average of three to four cents a pound which is up slightly due to the late crop and generally increasing costs.

A fine melon weighing 35 to 40 pounds will bring $1.25 at the stands. Cantaloupes are 35 to 45 cents each depending on their size.

The Hilltop Market, operated by the Morgans, had sold out Saturday morning and the owners were in their patch making another picking.

Jack Harris, who with Claude Davis, his father in law, has operated a stand on highway 67 1½ miles west of Bluff Springs was also planning to pick Saturday.

Produce Variety
There are a wide variety of melons including Hoosiers, Shippers, Crimson Sweets, Grays, Wilson Sweets, Garrisonians and others. The Hoosiers and Shippers are on sale now. They are a solid green melon. The stripers, which include the Garrisonian and Chris Cross, and the Sweets are also ready.

Although some growers use a corn planter in putting in their melons, according to Adviser Meredith, there is so much hand work involved that the number of farmers growing melons decreases every year.

However it is possible to clear $100 an acre on melons — to do this well on wheat it takes 40 bushels to the acre or better, Meredith estimated.

Generally the growers do their planting so that melons will come on in stages, ripening as the demand is maintained through August and September.

Most years the month of August sees the big, juicy melons on sale about the first week, but until the last week of the month in 1966 only "shipped in" melons were sold here. However, the Morgans and others began picking their own about August 9 or 10. In 1964 the first Melons were picked the latter part of July.

Reputation Established
Beardstown's reputation for fine watermelons was established at least 75 years ago when it was first realized that the light, sandy soil was ideal for the crop. The movement of the big crop then was by rail car and oldtimers can remember when George Kuhlman and other shippers hired quite a number of men to transfer melons from the farm wagons to railcars.

There were no highway stands in those early days, due to lack of cars and highway transportation, but many farmers vended their own melons by soliciting customers door to door in their homes.

While the quality of melons was so good the "Beardstown Melons" sign appeared in Chicago, Springfield and other cities, the methods of sale and transportation have changed radically, as have growing practices. Nitrogen and other fertilizers and pest controllers are widely utilized now, but were unknown in the early days.

"Only the demand and the taste remain the same" the growers state.

Miss Susan Shores, auxiliary delegate to Girls State, reported to the group during the evening's program. Nineteen auxiliary members and one guest attended.

During the social hour prizes were awarded to Mrs. Ruby Force, Mrs. Josephine Lucas and Mrs. Ted Ingram. Mrs. Force also received the door prize.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Letha Garner, Mrs. Paul Kirchner and Mrs. Otto Loeffler.

Celebrates Diamond Jubilee Mass

JERSEYVILLE—A blessing from Pope Paul VI was received by Father John J. Clancy, 100-year old pastor of St. Francis Xavier's Church of Jerseyville, shown above center, who became the first priest in the history of the Catholic Church to be able to offer Mass on the occasion of his Diamond Jubilee.

The blessing was inscribed on a scroll and was presented to Father Clancy during the banquet given for him here Tuesday evening, Aug. 16. The inscription is as follows, "Most Holy Father—The Reverend John J. Clancy, pastor of St. Francis Xavier Church, Jerseyville, Illinois, humbly prostrate at the feet of your Holiness begs the Apostolic Blessing on the occasion of the Seventy-Fifth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood on August 15, 1891."

Other communications read during the banquet were letters from President Lyndon B. Johnson, Senator Robert Kennedy, Governor Otto Kerner, Senator Everett Dirksen, and others.

Forests for the Future

Genetic control developed this stand of perfect pines, destined to reach heights of nearly 70 feet, at the Alabama nursery of a major wood pulp producer, Kimberly-Clark Corp.

U.S. consumption of wood products is skyrocketing with a major share of rising demand accounted for by a "paper explosion." More and more paper is being used for more and more purposes—for publications, for disposables in homes and industry, for office copying and electronic data processing equipment, and even for clothing. Current consumption is estimated at some 51 million tons a year, about 520 pounds for every American, and growing. To meet the increasing demand on the nation's timber resources, forest genetics experts are turning to the same scientific techniques that in the past have yielded better corn, wheat, cotton and many other agricultural advances. The process of developing strains of supertrees to meet the needs of the future already is well under way.

This crop of seedling pines, the end product of grafting and cross-pollinating superior trees, will be transplanted in cut-over forest areas. By the time the new trees are mature and ready to harvest, in 30 years, U.S. demand is expected to be more than double the present.

Cross-pollination is accomplished by wrapping plastic bags filled with pollen from superior "male" pine flowers around "female" flowers. The bag keeps out wind-carried pollen from inferior trees, resulting in a cone containing superior seed for nursery planting.

Forest genetics experts study the seedling of a supertree.

WILL THE REAL MYRA PEAK STAND UP—All Myra Lee Peak of Roodhouse wanted to do was enter the pigtail contest at the state fair last week. She never dreamed of the confusion that would result. Somehow, in the excitement, a photographer took Valerie Smith's picture and mistook her for Myra, who was really the winner. The photograph of Miss Smith and a picture caption declaring her the winner went out over the wire services. But that wasn't the end to the case of mistaken identity. Somehow, another picture caption declaring Miss Peak the winner was sent out with the photograph of Miss Smith. Myra, a 12-year-old dark-eyed lass, and her mother made a trip to the Journal offices this week to straighten out the situation, and a photographer was persuaded to take a picture of the real pigtail contest winner, with her braids. Myra, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Peak, won first place with 38½ inch pigtails. It was the fifth year she has placed first in the contest in her age group. One would think the photographers would remember Myra after five years.

Swedish Student Reports On Life In Red Chinese Home

An AP Special Report
EDITOR'S NOTE: Per Kronvall, 19, a Swedish student and budding journalist, visited a Chinese home in Peking during a recently concluded visit to Communist China and in the following story, written for The Associated Press, he reports on the experience.

By PER KRONVALL
Written For The Associated Press

In Peking I visited the family of a student. The father worked in a steel mill outside the city. He was a skilled worker and earned 90 yuan—almost $40—a month, about 20 yuan a month more than the average worker.

His rent, for a two-room ground-floor apartment in a privately owned house, was seven yuan a month. The father, his wife and another son all worked and had lunches and dinners at their places of employment, with the father and the son paying 16 yuan a month each and the mother 15. The girl of the family, 15 years old, attended school, where she had free meals. Bus fares totaled 20 yuan a month for the family.

I asked the man of the house through his English-studying son, what he thought of his life. "Everything is good," he replied. "I lead a happy life. I can support my family. We have enough to eat every day."

"What did you do before the liberation?" I asked.

"My father worked as a boy and I also tried to be a servant, but it didn't go so well. The family that my father and I worked for was very kind, even though they were imperialists. They got me a job as a tram conductor. My family was not starving, as many others were. Then the war came, and the Japanese occupied China. Then times became even more difficult, and many people starved to death. It was during the Japanese occupation that I started to work in the steel industry."

"Do you have any hobbies?" I asked.

"Not really," he replied. "In the summer I often sit and play cards with my neighbors. We often go to the movies together. Then, of course, the production teams take a lot of arrangements to have my hair cut in the factory. They also arrange for me to go to a bathhouse. And you don't have to pay anything."

Then I turned to the son, who was 18 years old and worked in his father's trade. Because he was just learning he received only 30 yuan a month.

Plans
"What are your future plans?" I asked.

"I want to be a skilled worker like my father, and perhaps I will be chosen for a responsible position in the factory."

"Will you get any extra money for this kind of job?" I asked.

"No, why should I? It is a privilege to work as a leader."

"Do all the people think that it is good to do much extra work and get no reward?" I asked.

"Yes. There are some who say no, but it is only because they read too little of the works of Mao Tse-tung."

While I was talking to the young man, the father started to read his pocket edition of Mao's works. I don't know if this act was to show me his admiration for Mao or what.

I asked the mother, who was a nurse in one of the Peking hospitals, about the prices of consumer goods. She let me know that food products like rice, tea and meat were only sold to those who had food coupons. One also needed coupons to buy cotton goods. Vegetables were quite inexpensive. A kilo of rice—2.2 pounds—cost 20 jin or 10 cents. Clothes were costly. A pair of simple blue pants cost 4.60 yuan. A summer shirt cost just as much. Winter clothes were even more expensive. And such things as nylon shirts cost 17 yuan, about one-fifth of the average monthly salary. But in China, she told me, salaries never went up; prices came down. I asked if there was any product that had gone up in price. The only price increase she mentioned was bread.

Benefits
"What kind of social benefits do you have?" I asked.

"Well," the father responded, "I and my second son have full medical aid insurance; so does my wife, because we all work. But my two other children who are still studying, get only 50 per cent protection. But if one must undergo an expensive operation the union helps him so that one only needs to pay about 15 yuan. For example, when our neighbor's boy fell and broke two of his side teeth he had to go to the dentist many times. His parents paid about nine yuan. Before the liberation the poor working people never could afford to go to dentists or doctors."

The girl wore a red scarf around her neck which I could tell made her a member of the Pioneers (a Communist youth organization). She told me about different activities she had. Before, she used to go out during vacation to work in state farms but now she had a lot of different meetings to attend.

"What kind of meetings?" I asked.

"We sit and listen to how our instructors tell about our country's revolutionary history. And we also read Mao Tse-tung's works," she said proudly.

"Think of it," the father said. "Thanks to the revolution and Chairman Mao, my children have a future. We are happy and never had it so good. I even have a bicycle, although I don't really need one. If someone would have told me that my life would be so pleasant before the liberation, I would have laughed."

Kankakee Moves Into National Baseball Tourney

FAIRBORN, Ohio (AP) — Jeff Scott's two-run homer broke up a tie game Saturday and gave Kankakee, Ill., a 5-2 victory over Kokomo, Ind., in the finals of the Northern Regional Little League Tournament.

The title earned Kankakee one of four U.S. sports in the coming little league world series at Williamsport, Pa.

Scott's homer came in the fifth inning off Kokomo pitcher Dan Dimoulin, whose two-run home run an inning earlier had tied the game.

The winning pitcher, who allowed five hits, was L.C. Nuttall. He drove in Kankakee's second run of the game with a first-inning double.

10th-Inning HR's Give Twins 4-2 Win Over Bosox

BOSTON (AP) — Tony Oliva and Harmon Killebrew slugged successive homers in the 10th inning, giving Minnesota a 4-2 victory over Boston Saturday night and extending the Twins' winning string to six games.

Oliva led off the 10th against Red Sox reliever Roland Sheldon with his 21st homer of the year and Killebrew followed with his 28th.

The victory went to Al Worthington, who relieved Jim Perry in the ninth after Bob Tillman's pinch hit homer had lifted the Red Sox into a 2-2 tie.

Perry scattered eight hits until the ninth and led 2-1 by virtue of Cesar Tovar's run-scoring single in the seventh.

Cepeda's Hit Lifts Cards To 3-2 Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Orlando Cepeda's run-scoring single in the 13th inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 victory over Los Angeles Saturday.

The loss dropped the third-place Dodgers three games behind the National League-leading Pittsburgh Pirates, who beat Chicago 3-2.

With one out in the 13th, Curt Flood singled off Dodgers reliever Ron Perranoski. Flood raced to third on Tim McCarver's single and, after Joe Moeller replaced Perranoski, Cepeda came through with a single to center, scoring Flood.

Kerry Way Now Big Favorite At Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill. — Gainesway Farm's Kerry Way zoomed to the forefront as a solid favorite for the $125,000 Hambletonian following her smashing two-heat triumph in the Review Futurity at the Illinois State Fair last Wednesday.

Voted last year's two-year-old trotting champion by the nation's harness racing writers, Kerry Way was re-installed as the favorite on the unofficial future book line for the non-wagering trotting classic at odds of 2-1.

During the winter the Star's Pride filly had been considered the early favorite in pre-race ratings for the Hambletonian, which will be renewed at the Du Quoin State Fair Aug. 31.

But an ankle infection set her back in her training program practically a month and she seemingly is just now returning to top form as her 2:00 1/5 and 2:00 4/5 mile clockings at Springfield indicate.

Second choice on the unofficial line for the Kentucky Derby of harness racing is Yonkers Futurity winner Polaris, holding steady at 5-2, followed by Carlisle at 7-2 and Governor Armbr0 at 4-1.

Following is the complete future book line for the betless Hambletonian Aug. 31 at the Du Quoin State Fair.

2-1 Kerry Way, 5-2 Polaris, 7-2 Carlisle, 4-1 Governor Armbr0, 5-1 Carless Vlado, 6-1 Bonus Boy, 8-1 Sure Mix, 8-1 Armbr0 Gazele, 10-1 Trader Gent, 10-1 Our Rainbow, 10-1 Speed, 12-1 Mantle Hanover, 12-1 All American.

Yankee Power Aids 8-2 Win Over Kansas City

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Richardson singled twice in a seven-run first-inning explosion that powered the New York Yankees to an 8-5 victory over Kansas City Saturday night.

Five hits, three walks and a hit batsman contributed to the Yankees' biggest inning of the season and helped right-hander Mel Stottlemyre struggle to his 11th victory in 26 decisions.

Gil Blanco, the A's starter, walked Roy White, was clipped for Richardson's first single and hit Tom Tresh with a pitch, loading the bases in the first.

Clete Boyer rapped a two-run single, Elston Howard singled a run across and Lou Clinton delivered another with a double before Ken Sanders replaced Blanco.

A bases-loaded walk to Stottlemyre, a ground out and Richardson's second hit drove in the last three runs in the inning.

Five Run Fifth Lifts Orioles To 8-5 Win

DETROIT (AP) — Russ Snyder hit a bases-loaded triple, then scored himself on a wild pitch in a five-run fifth inning that carried the Baltimore Orioles to an 8-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers Saturday.

The triumph snapped a four-game Tiger winning streak and again put the first place Orioles 13½ games in front of Detroit in the American League.

Elbow Has Koufax Set To Retire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sandy Koufax says he's more concerned with helping the Los Angeles Dodgers win the National League pennant than he is with his painful arthritic left elbow.

But he admits that the pain is so great that he's considering retirement.

"It's a matter of how long I can stand the pain," Koufax said. "It's a decision I won't make until I have to."

"The main thing on my mind now is to help the Dodgers win another pennant."

The tall left-hander who has 19 victories this season and four career no-hitters, insists he'll pitch Sunday against St. Louis and Ray Washburn.

Wednesday night against Cincinnati, he left the game in the fifth inning after suffering great pain. This was followed by a shot of cortisone, his second within the month, designed to inhibit pain and swelling.

At 30, Koufax draws an annual salary well over $100,000 and has a sparkling record that includes two Cy Young awards. Last season he won 26 games as the Dodgers won the pennant and two more games in their World Series triumph.

He first learned of the arthritic condition in March, 1965, and since then, as Dodger physician Dr. Robert Kerlan has put it, "must feel twinges with every pitch."

"They said it would get progressively worse," Koufax said, "and it has."

Koufax loosened up on the sidelines Friday and scheduled some running Saturday, adding, "I'll still start against St. Louis Sunday."

The other persons killed was Ralph Heger, stage manager of the Fair, who was on the ground.

The Gold Coast sponsored Jacksonville unit captured their semi-final berth with a 5-2 win over Bushnell, while Roodhouse moved up via a 7-2 margin over Mercedia.

A lead off homer by Dick Barnes and a two-run single by Frank Harris highlighted a 4-run third inning for the Jacksonville entrants, as they moved out to a 5-0 lead after the frame and held on for the triumph.

Wins Travers

Buckpasser Tops $1 Million Mark

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Buckpasser became a millionaire Saturday, coming from far off the pace in a stretch drive to win the $82,600 Travers at Saratoga Race Course.

The son of Tom Fool-Busanda, carrying the black silks of Ogdan Phipps, earned $53,690 for his ninth straight victory in 10 starts this year and boosted his bank account to $1,039,369 as he joined thoroughbred racing's most exclusive club.

Only Kelso, Round Table, Nashua, Carry Back and Citation won more than $1 million, and Buckpasser became the first 3-year-old to be admitted to the group. He did it by matching the track record of 2:01 3/5 for the 1 1/4 miles.

The three-quarter-length triumph over Reginald Webster's Amberoid, winner of the Belmont Stakes, came after Buckpasser's many backers in the crowd of $8,014, had all but given up hope.

He was far, far back in the early going and about four lengths off the pace as the field swung into the home stretch with one-quarter-mile remaining, with Amberoid running like a wild horse on the front end.

Then Braulio Baeza gave Buckpasser a crack of his whip, and the big bay took off. He quickly picked up Abe's Hope and Buffle and drew level with Amberoid with a little more than one-eighth mile remaining. For a couple of strides the pair raced even and then Buckpasser took off again.

Baeza said Buckpasser eased off a little right at the end but still had complete command of the situation. Buffle finished 3 1/2 lengths back of Amberoid in third place, followed by Abe's Hope, Fast Count and Stupendous, a stablemate of the winner.

Buckpasser paid $2.60, $2.20 and $2.20. Amberoid paid $4 and $2.20 and Buffle $2.20.

Buckpasser and Baeza were biding their time and didn't start moving until they left the back stretch.

"I was satisfied with the pace and my horse was running easy," Baeza said.

Many College Squads To Use 'I' Formation

By BOB HOOBING
Boston Herald
Written for the Associated Press

The "I's" have it for college football, 1966 style.

Texas, Oklahoma, Syracuse and Utah head the mounting converts to the tandem offensive alignment which will be so much in evidence next month.

The I of Texas, where the winged-T once was law, will be favored to deceive rivals. Jim Mackenzie, Oklahoma's new head coach, hopes it will lead to fewer fumbles and mistakes.

But, generally, the parade is underway because nothing succeeds like success.

Notre Dame just missed a perfect 1964 campaign blitzed with a new I. Arkansas utilized its regular 1965 schedule 10-0 after which Frank Broyles admitted "I adopted the I when I saw how successfully John McKay at Southern California was using it."

Syracuse's Ben Schwartzwalder, long a wing-T exponent, hopes to ride the I and half-back Floyd Little's legs — to the eastern title. The Orange will still put the ball in play from an unbalanced line.

New coaches Mike Giddings imported from Southern California, Utah, Doc Urich at Buffalo, Jim Carlen at West Virginia, Frank Jones at Richmond and Paul Dietzel at South Carolina brought the I with them. Ohio University and Wichita are also in the migration; North Carolina State and Villanova will use more I with their T's while Princeton and Western Michigan are blending larger doses of I into the single wing.

Mackenzie says the I permits a strong off-tackle attack both ways, good blocking, sends three quick receivers into the wide side of the field and, because the ball is handed off deeper in the backfield, it should result in fewer fumbles.

There will be more sprint-out quarterback passes, halfback-option throws, and sweep offensive formations already giving the defense headaches with an end split wide on one side and flanker on the other in many cases.

In the second year of the re-formation of unlimited substitution, there will be more multiple offenses and a greater variety of defenses. The players have been unable to specialize and absorb more of their assigned art.

Teams like Texas and Arkansas State, which had kept the two-way player in 1965, are now going all the way in the division of labor.

Defenses are being retooled to get to the runner before he can turn the corner or to the passer before he can throw. Kentucky is scrapping its 4-4 for a 5-3 setup.

The trend toward the free-lance "rover," such as Big Ten champion Michigan State George Webster, and unbeaten, untied Dartmouth Steve Lufford employed, is accelerating. For instance, Arizona has joined the bandwagon and Georgia Tech has switched tailback Giles Smith to the key position in its new Tech Wrecker, 4-3-4 setup. Whatever the label, the player is sort of a half-linebacker, half safety man who needs speed and a nose for the ball.

There is an increasing tendency in college to handle secondary pass coverage man-to-man as the pros rather than by zone which was once the variety tradition.

Everywhere the emphasis is specially fast, too, that's fine. But when sleek, small, swift UCLA and Alabama applied bowl crushers on previous unbeaten Michigan State and Nebraska last Jan. 1, it didn't go unnoticed. Bama's Bear Bryant has long been known for his greyhound-fine clubs.

One trend which never changes is the annual shuffle of coaches. In addition to those already mentioned new or old faces in new places include Tom Harp, Duke; Lou Saban, Maryland; Dave Hart, Pitt; Jack Musick, Cornell; Joe Paterno, Penn State; Vito Ragazzo, VMI; Jim Parker, Citadel; Ray Nagel, Iowa; Jim Pittman, Tulane and Tom Cahill, Army.

Steelers Prospects

Bill Austin Bringing Order Out Of Chaos

By JACK HAND

The departure of John Henry Johnson, who was released and then hooked on with Houston in the American Football League, leaves the running back chores to halfbacks Dick Hoak and Cannonball Butler and fullbacks Clarence Peaks and Mike Lind plus rookie Willie Asbury of Kent State, cut by Atlanta.

Johnson played in only one game last year because of knee trouble. Theron Sapp suffered a broken leg in camp and is out for weeks. Rookie Dick Leftridge is still ailing.

Sluggish play by the defensive line hurt the Steelers last season but Austin has been pleased by the work of John Baker and Ben McGee, his defensive ends, in the early games. Ken Kortas, a towering giant from Louisville, has trained down to 280 and may move Riley Gunnels or Chuck Hinton out of a tackle job.

Despite the trade of Myron Pottios to the Rams, the line-backing crew is solid with Gene Breen at Pottios' old middle job, flanked by John Campbell and Andy Russell, back after two years in the service. Bill Saul and Rod Breedlove are the extras.

Willie Daniels and Brady Keys will man the corners with Clendon Thomas (no longer an offensive end) and Jim Bradshaw at safety. Bobby Hohn, out with a dislocated hip, may move in on Daniel later in the year. Marv Woodson is the extra safety.

Frank Lambert, a fine punter, will handle that job again and Mike Clark will do the place kicking.

Next—Kansas City.

Problem No. 1 is quarterback. Bill Nelsen, tossed into a swim-or-sink situation last year with a bad leg, still is a question mark. Although Nelsen's knee was severely damaged in an exhibition game last August, he played on the gimpy leg all season. Unable to set up properly for the pass, Nelsen was a sitting duck for the blitz. He threw only eight touchdown passes and ranked 16th among the quarterbacks.

Austin must find out if Nelsen, whose knee apparently is sound after an operation, can do the job. Tom Wade, so-so as a backup man last year, is behind Nelsen. Jack Stofa, an unknown who spent two years in the minors, also is getting a look.

Austin beams when he talks about his receivers.

"We have five fine receivers who can play with anybody in the league," he said. The problem, of course, is to get the ball to them.

Gary Ballman at split end and Roy Jefferson at flanker are the starters, backed by Paul Marth, who may see some action as a defensive halfback. Jerry Simmonds and rookie J.R. Wilburn of South Carolina. John Hilton has come along nicely at tight end and Austin is looking at Tony Jeter, a Nebraska rookie acquired from Green Bay.

To bolster the offensive line, Austin dealt with Lombardi, his old boss, and got Jeter and Lloyd Voss, an interior lineman who was used on defense with the Packers. Voss goes into a guard job, while Mike Sandusky recuperates.

Mike Magac, former San Francisco lineman, has taken over the other guard position. Pat Killorin, No. 3 draftee from Syracuse, is expected to press Art Hunter for the center job. Rookie Larry Gagner of Florida and ex-Ram Roger Piliath also are line candidates.

As an old guard and former line coach, Austin takes particular interest in his offensive line. So far, he has not been happy about the play of his veteran tackles, Charlie Bradshaw and Dan James.

Ferguson Leads Tourney By One

Little 2nd In First Round Play

Three birdies on the back-nine coupled with an even par front nine maneuvered Stan Ferguson to a one under par 65 Saturday afternoon and the first round lead in the 46th annual Jacksonville City Golf Championship.

Ferguson, who made the shot of the day by sinking an 80 yards wedge shot on the eighth hole, turned in rounds of 33-32 to take a one-stroke lead over Mickey Little.

Five other entrants stayed within six strokes of the leader, with Jim Cisne at 67, Mike Anderson and Jim Buckley at 68, a 69 by Gene Price and Jim O'Brien at 70.

Sinks Eagle

Ferguson's eagle, the first of two recorded during Saturday's action, landed pin-high to the left on the elongated eighth green before kicking right and rolling in the back door.

Jim Reynolds managed the day's other eagle with an eight foot putt on the 18th.

Steady Play

Steady play and a pair of birdies on the back-side nailed down the first round's second slot for Little, as he recorded nines of 35 and 31 for his 66 total.

Little ran in seven pars and two bogies during his first tour of the Nichols Park course, while adding birds on 15 and 18 to seven pars the second time around for his back-side total of 31.

Cisne also managed a 31 on the second nine, via birds on 17 and 18, to gain the third slot going into today's second round. The JHS senior to be who recently placed 27th in the national Junior Jaycee tournament, went three-over on the front nine before making his late charge to record his one-over par 67.

Identical rounds of 35 and 33 moved Anderson and Buckley into a tie for fourth.

Consistency

Anderson, last year's sixth place finisher, had only three bogies in playing both turns, while Buckley also played in consistent figures, taking only four.

A tragic 14th hole spelled an unwanted sixth place spot for Price, as the first nine leader fell to a 37 on the back-side and a three over par 69 for the day.

Price had made the turn in 32, but a disastrous nine on the 14th sent him 4 over before two late birdies made some amends.

Wall, Ellis Lead Insurance Open

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Wes Ellis Jr. shot a "struggling" 68 and Art Wall Jr. a "routine" 69 to the Saturday for the 54-hole lead in the $100,000 Insurance City Open Golf Tournament with 15-under-par totals of 198.

Wall had shot 65-64 to lead the first two rounds at the par-71 Wethersfield Country Club, while Ellis had 65-65. Although they left the sensational scoring to others Saturday, they held a four-stroke edge going into the final 18 holes Sunday.

Billy Casper and George Archer shot seven-under-par 64's to be the closest challengers along with Julius Boros at 202.

Boros had 70 Saturday after earlier rounds of 67-65.

Another 64 was turned in by 24-year-old Steve Oppermann of San Francisco. The second-year pro said it was his best round ever.

It put Oppermann at 204 in a tie with another relative newcomer to the tour, 39-year-old Ed Griffiths of Fort Myers, Fla. Griffiths had 69 Saturday.

Arnold Palmer shot 70 after previous rounds of 68 and 67. He is tied with PGA champion Al Geiberger and four others at 205.

While Wall and Ellis duelled with pars and an occasional birdie, Casper and his playing partner Archer staged a match in birdie putts. Casper made two bogeys. Archer, 26, lives on nine birdies, ranging from four inches to 14 feet, but he carded two bogies. Archer, 28, lives on a cattle ranch at Cilroy, Calif.

He played the most consistent round of the day, hitting every green in the regulation number of strokes.

"I was really struggling, but I blew one hole," Ellis said, referring to the par 5 14th where he hit a wedge into a sand trap and took a bogey.

Wall had a similar affliction on the 16th hole, also taking a bogey six. However, Wall said, "I thought I played pretty well today. It was a routine round."

At the end of 54 holes there were 61 players under par figures.

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
SPORTS EDITOR
NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION

LONDON, England — (NEA) — English football, or soccer, is one sport they're going to find tough exporting to the United States as a professional attraction. Even in the heat of the World Cup competition, the English newspapers themselves complained of the dullness of the games because of the defensive tactics, with a minimum of scoring.

In a sense, it's like ice hockey: you get the feeling every time a ball penetrates the nets it's almost an accident, rather than a precisely planned maneuver.

Among the disappointed, even after the excitement of England's World Cup victory over West Germany in jam-packed Wembley Stadium, was Dick Millen, the Los Angeles lawyer who is the acting president of the proposed National Professional Soccer League.

One of the things that slows down the sport is the offside rule prevents an offensive player from getting between his defender and the goal before the ball is kicked his way. . . . For crowd spirit, though, a British football match can compare with the American brand any day. They even have the same tailgate parties outside the stadium, only here they switch to champagne. And the referees get the same kinds of boos when they render an unfavorable decision. Only disturbing note, and a personal one, was to hear the 10,000 West German partisans get up and sing "Deutschland Uber Alles" in the same neighborhood where V-2 rockets landed a generation ago. . . .

And when the British started to chant their "Eng-land" in nationalistic urging, it sounded more like "Siege hell." . . .

The way the English papers describe, a sporting event is something else again, by Grantland Rice out of Frank Merriwell, with a bit of Mickey Spillane. Samples from the staid Times: "West Germany were beaten fair and square. . . . the bitter disappointment or the elation of the moment. . . . as England were yet girding themselves for the extended test. . . . the little flame-haired Ball, a real ball of fire this great day. . . . the atmosphere was electric; it fairly cracked. . . . a wall of sound that drowned the flutterings of one's heart. . . . Wembley shuddered like some great monster turning in its sleep. . . . England's balloon of hope was floating gaily. . . . that tribal drum began to throb again and almost at once England answered its call." . . .

But the British fans were also sophisticated enough to treat the Clay-London farce as a drone. There wasn't even any of the racial slurring that marked the controversial champ last appearance here against Henry Cooper. . . . And never has there been a more incompetent challenger than Brian the Busted Breaker from Blackpool. . . .

"I have my doubts," he shrugged "after seeing the world's best, that they'd hold the attention of American fans."

His doubts are also spurred, undoubtedly, by the fact that all the professional football owners who were supposed to be in on the new league pulled out when it didn't get sanction from soccer's governing body in the United States.

For the aficionados — and you never saw such sports nuts as the Europeans — the fabulous Pele, supposed to be worth $750,000 on the open market, has been replaced as the world's soccer hero by Portugal's Eusebio.

St. Louis Cardinals

OFFENSE — Charles Johnson has his detractors. He's a trifle short. He can't throw long accurately. He doesn't function in bad weather. Those are the rumors. But he holds every Cardinal passing record, and a lot of teams would like to have him because he can get a hot hand. RATING—B+

RECEIVING — The same alignment operates again. Sonny Randle and Bobby Joe Conrad for the long stuff. Jackie Smith at tight end. Randle and Conrad are 30 but still spry as ever. Bill Gambrill has been a good relief man for them. Mal Ham-mack can spell Smith. No complaints are being heard. RATING—B+

RUNNING — Plenty of bodies, as usual, and augmented this year by high-priced rookies Johnny Roland and Roy Shivers. It's tough to see how Coach Charlie Weener can keep them all. The incumbent regulars are Bill Triplett and Joe Childers, pressed by Bill Thornton, Willie Crenshaw and Prentice Gautt. Others should have such problems. RATING—B+

LINE — Again a multitude of quality. Particularly impressive are center Bob McManis, tackle Ernie McMillan — both all-pro types. So's Ken Gray, the guard and leader of the unit. There'd be plenty of takers for Irvy Goode and Bob Reynolds, who round out the unit. The only possible problem is to develop depth behind them. RATING—A-

KICKING — Jim Bakken handles both the punting and place-kicking with aplomb and good results. He's even being worked at quarterback this year, too. For emergencies, Conrad can take place. Smith and Jerry Stovall can punt. RATING—B+

DEFENSE — LINE — The front four dipped severely in effectiveness last year and now Luke Owens has been retired for health reasons. Winner, a defense specialist, will have to concentrate on this department. He'll need a strong pass rush from ends Don Drumm, Joe Robb, Sam Sillas still gets trapped occasionally. Chuck Walker, Ed McCannery offer some help. RATING—C

LIVERBACKING — Good experience with Dale Meiner in middle, Bill Koman on right. They're slowing up a little, but you need those old heads in there. Larry Stallings is a vigorous strong side backer. Dave Simmons and Dave Meggery are capable of stepping in, too. RATING—B

SECONDARY — No better umbrella against passes in league when all are playing up to form. That means Pat Fischer, Jim Burson on corners and Larry Wilson (the original blitz) and Stovall at safeties. Even an old star like Abe Woodson can't stack that combo. Couple of rookies, Mike Ringer and Jim Heide, provide support. RATING—A-

SUMMARY — New Coach Charlie Weener is in enviable position of having a team that's stocked as well as any in NFL, except in the defensive line. At same time, the Cardinals had a morale problem last year that bogged them down. Everybody expects Charlie to live up to his name. PREDICTION—THIRD.

Oakland Coach Has A Difficult Problem

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — A week ago new Oakland Coach John Rauch had problems. Now he just has a headache.

A week ago, Rauch watched as two of his top players, receiver Art Powell and halfback Clem Daniels, walked out of camp. Earlier this week they walked back in, signed their contracts and left Rauch with so many versatile players on his club that he's got a headache.

The problem stems from the Oakland theory that it is best to draft the top athletes available without making the position they can play the No. 1 item in the decision. And now the Raiders have a flock of top-flight players at the receiving and running back spots.

But while it's Rauch's problem to fit the pieces together the amazing depth and versatility at the two key spots is the Raiders' strong point.

Take the receivers: Powell, a perennial All-AFL selection, is the split end; Fred Biletnikoff and Larry Todd, late-developing rookies, are penciled in at flanker; and the tight end job is up for grabs among veterans Billy Cannon, Ken Herock and rookie Tom Mitchell, a six-figure bonus baby out of Bucknell.

Take the running backs: Daniels is as good as any halfback in the league with 884 yards gained rushing and 568 passing receiving last year. In addition, Todd can handle a running back spot; Pete Banaszak of Miami is considered a strong rookie contender; and there are two veterans, Roger Hagberg and Hewitt Dixon, acquired from Denver.

However, quarterback could be a problem. Tom Flores and Dick Wood handled the job last year. But Wood went to Miami in the expansion draft and Flores is inconsistent. The big hope here is for a recovery by veteran Cotton Davidson, who underwent surgery on his shoulder last year.

Three newcomers will strengthen the lines, rookie guard Dick Tyson of Tulsa and guard George Flint and defensive tackle Tom Keating of Buffalo.

Flint and Tyson could wind up with starting jobs but they're currently swing men behind Marv Marinovich and Wayne Hawkins. The tackles are Bob Svinus and Harry Schuh with Jim Otto at center.

CRIES LAST SALE—H. E. Spencer, 89, Murrayville auctioneer for the past 57 years, cried his final sale Saturday at the closing-out sale of Michael, Francis and Mary McGrath on the McGrath farm three miles southeast of Murrayville. Seen in the background is Bernard Lahey, picking up a few pointers.

Son Follows In Dads Tracks As Army Pilot

Harold Spencer, formerly of Jacksonville and now a resident of Yuma, Ariz., is proud of his boy, John.

John, 20, is in Viet Nam serving as an Army helicopter pilot. John wanted to fly so he could be like his dad—at least somewhat.

Harold Spencer, son of Mrs. C. R. Bates, 216 Grand and Floyd Spencer, 611 Caldwell, was a bomber-pilot in World War II.

He and his son compared wings before young John left for Viet Nam, where he joined the 1st Cavalry Division.

John holds the rank of warrant officer, which means he can relieve troop commanders who also fly helicopters.

"You can't fly and command troops at the same time," John said.

Young Spencer underwent five months training at Ft. Wolters, Tex. and four months training at Ft. Rucker, Ala. He applied for helicopter school out of the ranks. He joined the Army after high school graduation in 1964.

"I wanted to fly," he said, "and the Army's Air Training Command is a new and expanding program."

Someday, when John ends his stint in Viet Nam, he hopes to go to college. He learned the value of a college education, he says, by joining the Army.

It Was Extremely Quiet' Eyewitness To Tragedy Recalls

By JANET DEMING
As Told To Art Harris

"It was extremely quiet. There wasn't too much confusion at all. I don't think anyone knew what had happened."

That was how Janet Deming, night city editor of the Jacksonville JOURNAL, described the tragedy from her vantage point in the grandstand at the Illinois State fairgrounds Saturday.

Mrs. Deming and her husband were seated in section M, row 11, a short distance from the point where the railing fell into the crowd, killing three persons, and injuring at least 26 persons, one critically.

One car had qualified, and a second was coming out onto the track to qualify when Mrs. Deming noticed a rope stretched across, and above the track. "While I was watching the rope, it went slack and fell onto the track two or three times," she explained.

This was all happening while a car was out on the track, but fortunately it occurred while the car was not on the main stretch of the dirt oval.

"After it fell on the track the last time, this fellow picked it up and tied it to the back of a wrecker. Then the man got into the cab of the wrecker and pulled the line taut."

Then it fell. "I looked up to see where it was attached to the top of the grandstand, and it was then that the railing fell."

Mrs. Deming commented that, "The railing just fell. 'I didn't see anyone fall, but people around me said afterward they saw bodies fall. I couldn't distinguish anything falling.'"

Several other accounts of the accident have stated that there was a "roar from the crowd" when the railing fell.

Mrs. Deming says being a part of the incident, and being so close, it was difficult to remember exactly the crowd reaction, other than the quietness that prevailed following the crash of the railing.

She said that people were momentarily puzzled. "Everyone turned to each other and asked what had happened."

"It was extremely quiet. There wasn't too much confusion, except from the two announcers."

Mrs. Deming said that the public address announcer told the people in the grandstand to stay in their seats, but another announcer began screaming for everyone to get out. "One would yell, 'Nobody move. Don't stand up, everybody back to your seats.' The other announcer was screaming, 'Get out of your seats. Every-

Rites Today In Iowa For Phillip Becker

Funeral services for Phillip Becker, a former Jacksonville resident, will be held at 2 p.m. today from the Whitall Funeral Home in Muscatine, Ia. Burial will be in a Muscatine cemetery.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Becker of Dallas, Tex.; a sister, Ruth Forbes of Plano, Texas and two children who live in Iowa.

Winchester Girl Shaken In Crash

Three drivers were cited Saturday afternoon and evening as a result of three separate accidents on city streets, in which one person was slightly injured.

Reported in good condition at Holy Cross hospital Saturday night was Brenda C. Woodrum, 17, of Winchester. Her head sustained a severe impact as a result on the accident, which occurred about three o'clock at East College and South Clay.

She was admitted for observation.

Miss Woodrum was the driver of a northbound car on South Clay, which collided with a westbound Pepsi-Cola truck, driven by Robert P. Mills of 544 Brooklyn.

Both heavily damaged vehicles were towed from the scene, and Miss Woodrum was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way.

An East St. Louis driver was ticketed following a two-car accident at the intersection of South Main and Morton about 6:30 p.m.

Officers cited Donald R. Bloemer of E. St. Louis with failure to yield after Bloemer attempted a left turn onto South Main striking an eastbound auto driven by Charles R. Reinhart of Philo.

Both cars were damaged.

body leave the section right way."

Sort Of Confusing. Mrs. Deming continued, "It was sort of confusing then. People were milling around not knowing which way to go."

She added that then state police rushed into the grandstand and moved those in the section, back to the aisle, above where the railing fell.

Ambulances were brought out, and the injured were taken to hospitals and the state fairgrounds emergency hospital.

Power saws began cutting the sections of wooden timber to clear the area, according to Mrs. Deming.

A spokesman for the fair, Ken Hughes, said that the railing weighed at least a ton, and was made of heavy wood timber, with iron angle irons.

"A fire engine was brought onto the track to hose off the area before they would let people back into the seats."

Kerner Leaves. She said that after the hour and 45 minute delay, the qualifying for the race continued.

Mrs. Deming told that Governor Otto Kerner, who was in the stands, left the track and did not return.

She said that after people were taken away, the grandstand and reviewing stand cleaned, and for the remainder of the afternoon, there was no report from the public address announcer on the condition of the injured.

"Nothing was said for the rest of the afternoon, and the only people who knew had to ask state police, or listen in on a transistor."

L. Henderson, Dunlap Inn Employee, Dies

Lester Henderson, 76, employed as an engineer at the Dunlap Motor Inn for the past 37 years, passed away at Holy Cross hospital at 7:35 a.m. Saturday. Mr. Henderson, who lived at the Dunlap, had been a patient at the hospital for 10 days.

He was born in Morgan County; son of Matthew and Melvina Deatherage Henderson.

Mr. Henderson leaves two cousins, Miss Ellen Deatherage of Jacksonville and Mrs. Ruth Franklin of Pittsfield.

Friends may call at the funeral home after noon today.

Adams Resident Killed In Crash

MT. STERLING — George Sharp, 70-year-old Camp Point man, was killed about 11 p.m. Thursday night when his car was struck by a tractor-trailer truck driven by David Alterton on Highway 24 near the Buckhorn road.

Mr. Sharp's car was parked along the highway with the lights turned on. The driver of the truck said he did not see Sharp standing on the road because of the lights of an oncoming car.

Reported in good condition at Holy Cross hospital Saturday night was Brenda C. Woodrum, 17, of Winchester. Her head sustained a severe impact as a result on the accident, which occurred about three o'clock at East College and South Clay.

She was admitted for observation.

Publicity Handout Says Walnut Terrace Garden Home Living

Editor's Note: The below publicity release of potential living conditions at Walnut Terrace homes on East Walnut street, a public housing project of the federal government, was prepared by the Morgan County Housing Authority.

GARDEN HOME LIVING FOR WALNUT TERRACE RESIDENTS

Clever Design Overcomes Budget Restrictions Imposed by Government Standards for Public Housing

You may be deceived if you drive by the Walnut Terrace Homes at 30 m.p.h. The closing speed of an automobile belies the spacious "Garden Home" design and living conditions afforded the occupants of this suburban development.

All you have to do, however, is to take a walk through the area and you are surprisingly aware of spacious housing units that misrepresent their compliance with government regulations.

A decided change from the pioneer days of public housing, in which economy was the key factor and no allowances were made for psychological acceptance by the occupants. The "Walnut Terrace Projects" considers the needs of the individual, privacy, recreation, pleasant surroundings, and personal pride. Not present are the crowded hallways, totally surfaced playgrounds and yard areas, no landscaping and other poor characteristics of the earlier misadventured projects.

Walnut Terrace is gracious and tastefully designed and decorated to give personal pride and high-grade livability to the families that reside there. Regeneration is lost by the wise use of various colored brick and singularly designed and located units by type. A breadwinner no longer must feel that he is a ward of the State, but can realize that he is living in his home carefully planned to fit his budget.

According to Bill Cole, Executive Director of the local Housing Authority, families with up to $5200 adjusted gross annual income may make application. "These homes are designed to afford modern living conditions to families unwilling to accept sub-standard housing and unable to afford the high cost of decent rental homes and apartments."

Applications are being taken at Room No. 209, Dunlap Inn, Jacksonville, Illinois, or telephone the authority at telephone 243-2812 for an appointment.

Income eligibility ranges from a family of one with an adjusted gross income of $2700, to a family of eight or more with an adjusted gross income of $5200. Adjusted gross income? Well, that means after allowed deductions are made, for example, income tax deductions plus other authorizations.

Hail The Park Service!

As millions of Americans hustle about the land bent on vacation pleasure, relatively few may be aware that this year marks an anniversary highly relevant to that pursuit. The reference is to the half-century mark for the National Park Service, which today protects more than 230 parks, shrines, riverways, parkways, battlefields and cultural and industrial sites of historic interest.

The Park Service was the product of the imagination of two men, cruising in Nova Scotia lakes and temporarily holed up by a storm. These two were Franklin K. Lane, later President Wilson's secretary of the interior, and Gilbert H. Grosvenor, editor of the National Geographic. They enlisted other far-sighted conservationists, who sought to give this country the best park service on earth.

Their child has just completed a 10-year task force operation which began in the Eisenhower administration and has spent a billion dollars. This has renovated and expanded the parks and their surroundings, which had become distressingly run down. The success of the undertaking is indicated by the fact that even so determined a lover of government economy as Virginia's Sen. Harry F. Byrd the elder felt that the Park Service got $1.20 worth from every dollar Congress gave it.

New ambitious plans are in the offing. A particular aim is to establish recreation areas for city people who cannot get to remote parks. The National Park Service is bidding to make its next 50 years as successful as the first 50.

At Public Expense

There seems to be no limit to the axe-grinding some members of Congress do in the appendix of the Congressional Record. A case in point is offered by a recent unabashed plug for a book, a plug included as an "extension of remarks" by Rep. Theodore R. Kupferman of New York. He took up about a third of a page of the Record appendix to sing the praises of a newly published volume allegedly chock full of dandy anecdotes and poems useful to public speakers.

Said Kupferman, in sententious conclusion, "For my colleagues whose daily existence is a round of public speeches, reading this book can only prove highly informative and helpful." The free book ad was doubtless helpful to both author and publisher. It was informative, also, as to how far some congressmen will go in improper use of the Congressional Record.

Dear Ann:

Ignoring Cry For Help Is Inhuman

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I just read that asinine letter from the man who was mad at you because you told another male reader he should not have helped the little girl in the church restroom. Please print this letter as a lesson to all kind-hearted men who may be inclined to give a helping hand to someone in need.

My two nephews (aged 19 and 17) were driving home after having visited relatives in another city. They saw a teenage girl on the road. She seemed in distress so they picked her up. She got into the car, said she was trying to get home and had run out of gas. The truth was that she was running away from home. The boys were stopped by the police who were on the lookout for the girl. My nephews were arrested, charged with statutory rape and spent the night and part of the next day in jail before the girl admitted that they were innocent. The boys' parents spent some mighty anxious hours before the mess was cleared up. The town, of course, is still making bets on "the true story." So you see it does pay to mind your own business. GREENVILLE

Dear Greenville: I agree. It does pay to mind your own business, but not to the point where we allow ourselves to ignore people in trouble. The operative word is "judgment." I am dead opposed to picking up hitchhikers (male or female) and have said so repeatedly. To ignore a cry for help, however, as so many people have done in recent years, is inhuman and indefensible.

Dear Ann Landers: The man I am in love with works with me and I see him every day. I cannot see him much at night because he is married to a slob who is so wrapped up in her children she doesn't know she has a husband.

My sweetheart has told me that he can't leave his children now and I see his side of it. Kids do need a father—at least until they are out of high school. My question is, what shall I do in the meantime? —PATIENT

Dear Patient: In the meantime you can read a lot or play solitaire or watch T.V. or go to movies.

One day you will look in the mirror and discover to your astonishment you are older and there are no marriageable men around. You'll note that your sweetheart is still living with his wife and you are still sneaking around setting for whatever you can get. Pretty picture? No. But it's a very real one—and so old I'm almost ashamed to repeat it.

Dear Ann Landers: I had to laugh when I read the letter from the worried wife who found orange lipstick on her husband's collar.

I work as a draftsman and I use colored pencils for graphs and charts. For several years I used my handkerchief to smooth out the colored portions. One day my wife asked me, "Who in your office uses purple lipstick?"

When I told her I didn't understand her question she confessed that she thought I was having affairs with several different women because she had found red, pink, orange (and now purple) smudges on my handkerchiefs.

When I explained she said, "What a crazy fool I have been." So you see, Ann, you are right. It's always wise to clear the air. —NOT GUILTY

Dear Not: Any guy who would use his handkerchief for red and pink pencil smudges must have a very clear conscience, indeed.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Washington Both Negroes, Whites Off On Tangents In Race Issue

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Signs multiply from coast to coast that both whites and Negroes are misreading the real prospects which confront them in this country.

On the Negro side, all too few leaders realize — and virtually none dare acknowledge publicly — that there is not going to be anything approaching "freedom now" for millions of deprived Negroes.

The better jobs, schools and housing they seek are going to come slowly. Open revolt may seem here and there to speed action but the calamitous events in the big cities since 1964 suggest it is more likely to impede it.

As for the majority whites, they are deluding themselves if they imagine that serious change on the racial front can be deferred past their lifetimes. Today's 20 million Negroes will soon be 25 million, and then 30 million. Their presence — and their problems — cannot be wished away with a wand.

Far too many Negro leaders have raised Negro expectations miles beyond the practical prospect for early fulfillment. They — and some of their sympathetic white friends — then have left a puzzled and sometimes overwhelmed police the problem of dealing with the terrible frustrations thus stirred.

A surprising number of allegedly responsible Negroes are blinding themselves to the damaging consequences of riot and near-riot. Convicted that pressure works, they draw no fine distinctions between what is extreme and what is not.

NAACP leader Roy Wilkins told this reporter he made little headway when arguing with one Negro in a meeting that it was just as bad for Negroes in Watts to pull whites out of their cars and beat them as it was for whites to beat fatally a young Negro who sought a job in all-white Chicago, Ill. Said Wilkins at the time:

"Black death, white death, it is all the same."

Though dramatic protest and reaction brought the passage of the major 1964 and 1965 Civil Rights Acts, it appears only partly true that "the squeaky wheel gets the grease." There is ample evidence that the squeaky wheel is driving millions of urban whites out of earshot.

White schools and white residential areas pushed against with screaming slogans quickly turn all black, and the "de facto segregation" complained of in northern cities simply widens its arena.

Deep new fears are aroused and vital white good will, none too robust in some cities, is rapidly dissipated.

In their righteous indignation over lawlessness excused in the name of legitimate Negro aspirations, many whites are, however, equating good civic order with no progress at all for the Negro.

An Orange County, Calif., conservative conceded privately not long ago that racial change had to come eventually. But he admitted he hoped to avoid the discomfort of it while he is alive.

Despite all the unrest of this and earlier summers, this kind of hope seems to govern even the most responsible white business, professional and civic leadership in countless large American communities.

The spirit of urgency President Johnson evidently hoped to engender by his June White House Conference on Civil Rights has not really enlisted the white community. With only occasional exceptions, it is still acting as if the massive problems of the Negroes — and the urban cores they occupy — can be merely nibbled at.

Notwithstanding the contentions of our foreign critics, Americans do not like to attend to even one war at a time. To ask them to get fired up about two at once — in faraway Viet Nam and in their own cities — is to seek a great deal.

The cost of the Viet Nam fighting already is pinching economically. White leaders just shake their heads when Negro spokesmen talk of $100 billion betterment programs.

Yet some kind of urgency, producing action on the grand scale, which means big money, is believed in key government circles here to be crucial to sane progress on the racial front.

If big and actionable plans are not to be the final consequence of the June conference, then the outlook would seem to be for more civil turmoil — vehement Negro protest tending toward riot, and increasingly violent white reaction. The nation cannot forever suffer such deep wounds and have any mutual white-Negro good will left to bridge the great racial chasm which threatens it.

Boyle Jumps To Conclusions

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Professional confidence men rarely go on diets. Being portly often is helpful to them, they find, for the public instinctively tends to put more trust in a man who has a bit of a bay window.

No matter how often the voters change administrations, they never seem to put a man in power strong enough to get the U.S. Post Office Department to put more glue on its stamps.

The real reason most men don't get divorces is that if they even bring up the subject, their wives get angry.

If bartenders had their way, it would still be illegal to serve a woman a drink in public, or a minister.

Security is hard to find, but in New York City the most secure people seem to be those who own a delicatessen. They almost never go broke.

The worst sin that can be committed in the kitchen is to undercook turkey. Runner-up: Trying to cover up a culinary disaster by putting in more garlic.

You can win money by betting that two out of the next three women you see wearing big pearl button earrings will be plump, and below average height.

Any restaurant waiter will tell you that millionaires order corned beef hash more often than they do steaks for lunch.

The most talkative people at cocktail parties are psychiatrists. Their ears are bent so often by others that they take every chance they can to get even. Besides, as long as they hold the floor, they know that no one else can try to ask them for a free diagnosis.

Most of the characters who keep grand pianos in tiny Greenwich Village apartments can't play them. But the pianos do give a cultural tone — and they're wonderful for storing bottled wine.

Every other cab driver under 35 in Manhattan isn't really an unemployed actor. But he pretends he is — and grows long side burns as part of the pretense — in order to win bigger tips from romantic lady passengers.

Crooks prefer to snatch pocketbooks from elderly women on sunny rather than rainy days. On rainy days the old gals carry sharp-pointed umbrellas.

You begin to grow up in this world when you realize you can't please everybody. Even if they put gin in the office water cooler, some grouch would complain he would rather have vodka.

No change is not automatically good. It requires direction, long-range planning and more than living from hand to mouth. In our city we have a first-class example of the tragedy of the radical change that had no long-range perspective.

An area of the community had bad housing, was unhealthy and needed careful survey and planning. Somebody said, "They ought to rip it all down." That view prevailed and the bulldozing technique was applied. Whole city blocks were condemned; residents were compelled to move; there was no adequate social guidance to assist them in their moving and at last the bulldozers took over. Out of the wreckage came an enormous area which was leveled.

That was 15 years ago. Now a few new homes have been erected in the area and there is some promise of others. Meanwhile, human beings suffered, politicians haggled and a community's confidence was thwarted. It is a dramatic and poignant example of the ruin which has no long-range goal and no willingness to work at creating the new.

This has happened to nations. An enslaved people has worked and fought for freedom, only to sell its soul to a new kind of slavery.

This has happened to urban areas. A city has changed its facade and spent millions of dollars building housing units that will be the slums of 1980.

This has happened to persons. Men and women have yearned for change and so have given up one situation only to discover that they have reduplicated it in their new experience.

Jesus spoke of a house that was possessed of a devil. That devil was routed and the house permitted to stay empty. Within a short time, seven devils came peering through the windows, looking the place over and then moving in. Said Jesus, the last state of that man was worse than the first.

Changes for the sake of change is not the answer. Change demands planning, demands imagination and demands action.

That's why the person who tries to run away from his problems by going on a cruise may discover that he's just taken his troubles along with him.

That's why the man who thinks that he needs to move from one community to another may discover that he has just taken his difficulties along.

Change demands a plan, creative, dramatic action and persistent tenacity. As Dr. John Gardner once wrote, "When we have learned to achieve self-renewal without wars and other disasters, we shall have discovered one of the most important secrets a society can learn, a secret that will unlock new resources of vitality throughout society. And we shall have done something to avert the hardening of the arteries that attacks so many societies."

Change demands that we know why we ought to change, with the willingness not to let the house empty for worse occupants. For creative change demands a faith that nothing can separate us from the love of God.

It seems strange that it is the spokesmen for various church denominations who are giving the most opposition to Senator Dirksen's constitutional prayer amendment.

Most of these spokesmen, however, are from member denominations of the National Council of Churches, which is consistent in promoting objectives which are not in the best interest of our country — namely, disarmament, recognition of Red China, destruction of immigration and passport laws, increasing foreign aid to Communist countries, abolishing investigative committees on Communism, abolishing loyalty oaths and loyalty security laws, and others.

Consumer Complaints As To Beef Prices Lead To Herd Cuts

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Consumer complaints about beef prices appear likely to help bring about a future reduction in supplies and even higher prices.

The production of beef cattle is on the decline largely because many livestock men doubt that future income prospects will be as good as those in the present market. As a result, livestock men are sending a heavy volume of calves and heifers to slaughter markets. And there have been heavier-than-normal sales of cows.

Thus the breeding herd is declining. So fewer calves will be produced next year and beef supplies will go down.

Farm officials say there are a number of factors leading the cattle industry to reduce its inventory. They include this year's reduction in cattle prices, an increase in feed grain prices, some consumer resistance to high beef prices, expanding production of competitive pork and poultry and the rising cost of credit needed to finance cattle-feeding operations.

Cite Reasons for Cut

An Agriculture Department report has this to say about the situation: "Cattlemen are reducing the size of their cattle inventory again this year even though cattle and calf prices have averaged above 1965 and other recent years. More animals are being marketed for slaughter than will be added to the end of the year inventory through imports and the calf crop."

"In effect, cattlemen prefer immediate returns from the sale of heifers and heifer calves to return from sale of calves that these heifers would produce in the future if added to the breeding herd. Reduction in the current cattle inventory probably reflects more of a lack of optimism about future cost-price relationships by cow-calf operations than have other reductions (in cattle numbers) in the past."

Down 1-2 Per Cent

The department says it expects cattle numbers at the end of this year to be down 1 to 2 per cent from a year earlier. Livestock experts say there is no substantial indication yet when the current reduction trend in cattle numbers will run its course.

"Rebuilding of inventories in the past has generally begun when weather conditions improved and there was renewed optimism among cattlemen about calf prices and feed conditions," the department said.

A factor which could slow recovery in cattle numbers has been a rapid decline in feed grain supplies and resultant higher prices. There is a possibility feed grains will continue strong for another year, if not longer. Much depends on the final outcome of this year's grain crop which is being retarded somewhat by dry weather in some producing areas.

In any event, abundant feed grain supplies cannot be restored fully until 1967 crops are harvested in the fall of that year.

More Hogs, Poultry

Favorable prices of hogs during the past fall and winter—and even now—have been encouraging farmers to raise more hogs. As a consequence, pork supplies available in the coming fall and winter will be much larger than a year earlier. Prices of hogs will decline and so will pork. Likewise broiler and turkey supplies are rising to a record level to provide, along with pork, stronger competition for beef—competition which dims future income prospects for beef cattle.

Club members discussed their County Fair and planned a tour of Elliott State Bank to be held Aug. 24. An anti-litter campaign is also being planned.

Dean Bentley Lauds Farmers Of Illinois

The Dean of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture optimistically called upon Illinois farmers to prepare for expanding their production to meet future needs.

Speaking before the Farm City Day audience at the Illinois State Fair Monday Orville G. Bentley cited recent U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that project market demand increases of 40 to 50 percent for beef and veal, 20 percent for chicken and turkey, 20 percent for eggs and milk and 16 percent for pork from 1960 to 1980. The expanded needs for livestock products would boost the demand for feed grains by 63 percent, he pointed out.

He also pointed out that by 1980 crop exports are expected to rise 75 percent and soybean exports will be three times as great as those in 1960.

Some Amazing Production The blueprint for the future is already under way on some Illinois farms, Dean Bentley stated. He cited as "pacemaker"

Illinois Farmers Union To Seek New Members

SPRINGFIELD — Ray Watson, Odell, president of the Illinois Farmers Union, announced last week that the organization is making plans for a massive membership campaign. "The number one goal of the Farmers Union this fall and winter will be membership growth," Mr. Watson said.

Members of the Executive Board of the state Farmers Union met with the National President, Tony Dechant, and the National Director of Organization, Dwyte Wilson, from Denver, Colorado, in Springfield today to plan for the membership campaign.

"We are pleased that Illinois is joining with other Farmers Union states in a nationwide campaign to increase the membership of National Farmers Union," Dechant said. "While there has been some improvement in farm income, farmers are still only receiving 80% of parity prices. Farmers Union's goal is full parity and we are inviting all family farmers to join and help farmers reach this goal," he declared.

Members of the Executive Board of the Illinois Farmers Union are: Raymond J. Watson, president, Odell; Noble Lowery, vice president, Westfield; Joe Callahan, chairman of the board, Milford; Michael Tighe, secretary-treasurer, Homer; Robert Alford, Girard; Dale Shaner, Bradford; Frank Sloan, Assumption; Emmett Caveny, Litchfield; Howard Colclasure, Louisville; Clarence Jahnssen, Mulberry Grove; and George Stephenson, Colfax, Illinois.

BRIMFUL and running over

By Jim Brim

Bigness is no cure-all. Larger volume is no sure route to more profits.

Many believe, "If I just had a few more acres. If I just raised a few more head of hogs or cattle." Many people, farmers and others, are suffering from "volumitis" — too much attention to increasing volume and too little attention to other ways of raising profits.

Look at ways to reduce costs — and ways to reduce taxes. Don't wait till the end of the year. Work on it now. Keep good records.

Credit Cards — Everyone seems to be using them, at least a large number of people are. They are convenient, but remember you must pay the bill sooner or later. Convenience can turn into catastrophe if you lose it, or have it stolen. You are responsible for charges made by the "finder" unless you report the loss to the company immediately.

Officials say there is a black market in lost and stolen credit cards. One company says the average charges run up on a stolen card are $3,500!!!

PIKE CITIZENS ORGANIZE TO BACK REVENUE ARTICLE

PITTSFIELD — At a recent meeting a Pike county citizens committee was organized to seek support of a new revenue article for the Illinois Constitution.

Those named to the newly formed committee for aiding in the state-wide revenue reform campaign are attorney Brice Irving, general chairman; Miss Marjorie Nighbert, secretary of Pittsfield Chamber of Commerce, organizational contact.

Russell Keys, trustee officer of the First National Bank, speakers bureau; Nick Smith, trust officer of the Farmers State Bank, public relations; Al Wuelner of Straus Co., finance, all of Pittsfield. Other members of the committee are T. N. Troutner, Pittsfield; Phil Hoover, Milton; Manley Moody, Al Brant, and Lloyd Peile all of Pittsfield, and Leo Grimes of Nebo.

The county organization will lead a local campaign to get wide-spread public understanding of what the amendment's sponsors call "the dire need for reform of the revenue structure in Illinois." They will urge adoption of a state constitutional amendment which will enable the Illinois Assembly to change the tax structure affecting state and local government.

Illinois citizens will vote on the proposed revenue amendment in the general election November 8. More than 100 prominent citizens have joined the state-wide Citizens Committee for a New Revenue article, which is coordinating the revenue reform campaign throughout the state. Members of both political parties, as well as educators, businessmen, labor and farm groups, and civic organizations have called for adoption of the constitutional change.

Mrs. Madelyn Strubinger, Mrs. Georgiana Lipcaman, Mrs. Diana Forgy and Catherine Dunker all employees of the Mississippi Valley Production Credit Association were in St. Louis Monday and Tuesday attending a Sales, Communications and business development Program at the Intermediate Credit Bank. Rabies On Upswing Throughout Illinois; 316 Cases Last Year

A recent report from the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine shows that the number of confirmed cases of rabies in Illinois has doubled in the past four years. In 1965 there were 316 confirmed cases of rabies in animals.

Rabies is usually associated with the "dog days" of August. However, U. of I. extension veterinarian Neil Becker says that rabies is a problem throughout the year. The greatest number of cases reported in 1965 occurred during March, April, July and August.

Adams, Vermilion, Champagne, Marion, Jefferson, Clinton, McLean and Pike counties reported the most cases. Some of these counties supported skunk control and trapping programs that contributed to the high number of reported rabies cases.

Skunks again topped the list of rabies carriers last year, with 157 positive cases reported. Dogs rated only fourth, with 19 reported cases. The report noted the growing concern about cats as rabies carriers. Last year 80 cases of rabies in cats were confirmed. Other important carriers were cattle with 24 cases, bats with 13 and foxes with 11.

Vaccination Helps

On a national basis there was nearly a 70 percent increase in fox rabies, but less than a 10 percent increase in dog rabies — an all-time low. Rabies in dogs has generally been well controlled in the city by required vaccination, licensing and confinement regulations. The marked increase in positive cases of cat rabies has prompted many health officials to recommend similar vaccination and confinement of pet cats.

Most rabies is transmitted by bite, because the rabies virus is located in the salivary glands. Veterinarian Becker says that the bite injects the virus along with the saliva into the wound. The virus travels up the nerves but does not cause any damage until it reaches the spinal cord and brain.

Then we see characteristic rabies signs, such as madness, incoordination and paralysis of the mouth that prevents the animal from swallowing. Complete paralysis occurs soon afterwards, and the animal dies.

Suggestions To Parents Becker gives these suggestions to pet owners and parents: Have your pet cat vaccinated, and keep it confined to your home and yard. Caution your children not to play with stray cats or dogs. Tell them not to try to catch wild animals. Report to the police or local health authorities all cases in which animals bite people or children.

If you or your child is bitten by an animal, contact your family doctor immediately. Confine the animal if possible, but try not to kill it. The series of shots for people bitten by suspected rabid animals no longer causes many of the former side effects, because improved vaccines have been developed.

SONAR FOR SHEEP has been developed by the Agriculture Department to aid farmers to improve their lamb crops. Adapted from the sonar device used by the Navy for submarine detection, an ultrasonic analyzer passes sound waves through an ewe to determine pregnancy. The waves bounce back if fetal tissue is encountered. Found 90 per cent accurate in tests at the department's Beltsville, Md., station, the analyzer enables farmers to rebreed ewes found not pregnant to insure a full lamb crop.

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

WHEAT SURPLUS IS GONE

Our surplus stocks of wheat are gone. We have just about enough to last until the 1967 harvest.

The supply in sight for this marketing year totals about 1,780 million bushels. This includes old wheat carried over from previous years and the 1966 crop. A part of this crop, that in the northern states, has not yet been harvested.

Total use and exports are expected to take 1,430 million to 1,530 million bushels before next July 1. That would leave only 250 million to 350 million bushels for carryover next July 1.

A carryover of 250 million bushels would not include any reserve for emergencies. It would be only about enough to keep the "pipelines" full. Something like this amount is needed to keep wheat flowing to our mills and to the ships that are always loading at export points. Supplies of some types of wheat could become quite scarce.

The carryover of old wheat on July 1 was only 536 million bushels. This amount is one-third less than last year and two-thirds less than the all-time record carryover of 1,411 million bushels five years ago.

The 1966 crop was estimated in early July at 1,240 million bushels. This production would be 7 percent less than last year, but 1 percent more than the 5-year 1960-64 average. (This statement was prepared before August 10, when the USDA released its estimate of production based on conditions prevailing at the first of this month.)

The carryover of 536 million bushels, plus a new crop of 1,240 million plus a little feed wheat that may be imported would make up the expected supply of 1,780 million bushels that we mentioned earlier.

We use wheat for four principal purposes: seed, food, exports, and feed for livestock and poultry.

Farmers used about 61 million bushels of wheat for seed this past year. They may use a little more, probably around 65 million, for planting this fall and next spring — for the 1967 crop.

The amount of wheat used for food in this country changes very little from year to year. We used 520 million bushels for flour and breakfast food in the past year and will use about the same amount this year.

Farmers used around 168 million bushels of wheat for livestock and poultry feed in the 1965-66 marketing year. With prices higher this year, the amount of wheat fed to animals may be about half as much as during the past year.

The amount of wheat exported has doubled in the past 10 years. During the marketing year ended with June, exports of wheat were 860 million bushels. Exports may be a little less this year, probably 760 to 860 million bushels.

Exports of wheat are closely controlled by the government. Most of the wheat that is exported is shipped under foreign aid programs, with the U. S. government paying the bill. Even wheat that is sold for cash is priced under the mar-

Cass County 4-H Fair Opens Tuesday, Ends With Sale Saturday

VIRGINIA—The officers and directors of the Cass County Fair association welcome the public to the fair to be held on the fairgrounds in Virginia August 23-27. Officers are: President, Leland Sweatman; vice president, Pat Latham; secretary, Kenneth Fielder; treasurer, Reginald Jokisch.

Directors — Woods Crum, Lorenz Kleinschmidt, David Dadds, Charles Aggett, H. W. Strubbe, Henry Carls, Glenn Herzberger, Gene Armstrong, Robert Wildt, Charles Unland, Homer Rohn, Russell Davis-meier, J. Spencer Thornley, Russell Mallicoat, Dale Hager.

The association has issued an attractive "Fair Book." The first page inside the front cover is devoted to a picture of Glenn A. Birnbaum, who passed away the morning of June 19, 1966, Father's Day. The 4-H Fair has his "brain child." After conceiving the idea, he consulted several local businessmen and it was decided to hold a 4-H fair that early fall. It was held on the grounds around the Virginia Packing Company plant. It grew so swiftly, larger space was imperative and the fair association purchased the present location, west of the Community High School. Mr. Birnbaum was loyal to the 4-Hers throughout his life time. For many years he supplied beautiful calendars in color depicting some phase of 4-H work. His financial assistance was always forthcoming.

The fair will open at 10 a.m. Tuesday with a tractor rodeo. The same evening at 7:30 the pony show will be the attraction. On Wednesday morning at 8:30, the carcass barrow show will be held; home economics judging will be at 9 a.m., at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. At 8 p.m. one of the highlights of the fair will be the Miss Cass County Fair Queen contest. Following this event, "The Showmen" will furnish music for a dance in the high school gym from 9 until 12 p.m.

Judging of swine and of agricultural products and poultry will be the morning program on Thursday. In the evening, the entertainment will be presented by the "Grand Ole Opry," starring George Hamilton IV with Lonnie Wilson's band. Friday will be the high school gym from 9 until 12 p.m.

THE CROSS-EYED PIG

By John Rankin

Don came in off his afternoon paper route and left his bicycle on the front porch and went on through the house to the kitchen. Mom was putting a roast on the table. She looked around as he came in and said, "Get ready for supper, dear. Your father will be home soon."

A little later as everybody gathered at the supper table Dad carved the roast and put a generous portion on Don's plate. "Well son, how is everything on your paper route? Pick up any new subscribers today?"

New Paper Subscriber "I picked up one," Don replied with enthusiasm. "Some new folks that moved in over the drug store, and they think their cousin or somebody is moving in with 'em and will want the paper too, maybe."

"That's the spirit, son," Dad said as he beamed, and gave Don a praising look. "The paper boy of today is the business man of the future. Still got old Mr. McCarty out at the edge of town?"

Don nodded. "Sure. And Mr. O'Malley is moving in with him now and they're going to take the paper together. One pays for it the first week and the other the next or something."

Mom looked up quickly, her eyes showing surprise as she peered across the table at Don. "Mr. O'Malley? Isn't he the old fellow who lives with his sister across town on Vine street?"

"He did but he's living with Mr. McCarty, now," Don continued, "and they're going to be partners in everything—including Mr. O'Malley's cross-eyed pig."

"Now who ever heard of a cross-eyed pig?" Mom said right, with a dubious smile. "And anybody keep such an animal in the first place?"

Pig Does Tricks "Oh he's a real smart pig and can do a lot of fancy tricks," Don declared, "but he's crossed-eyed something fierce and that's where all the trouble comes in. Mr. O'Malley's sister screamed her head off about him and said just looking at the thing gave her a creepy feeling all over."

"And she puts up such a squawk about it Mr. O'Malley takes his pig and moves in with Mr. McCarty, eh?" Dad asked with an amused grin. "Well something tells me there'll be more than a creepy feeling concerning a cross-eyed pig develop when that pair of cantankerous old jaspers try living together under the same roof."

Mom gave Dad a withering look. "Why Joseph Martin! I understand that Mr. McCarty man of the future. Still got old Mr. McCarty out at the edge of town?"

"And they've always had a card game going out at Mr. McCarty's place, or going fishing together or something," Don pointed out. "I'll bet they'll really have a ball out there now."

Dad pushed back from the table and stood up. "I'm sure they will. And so will a pair of alley cats," he said in a solemn tone. "But just tie 'em together and see what happens," he added with a smirking grin, and turned away and went into the living room.

About a week later Mom was at the kitchen sink peeling potatoes when Don got in off his paper route. "Guess Dad was cross-eyed pig?" Mom said right, "he began excitedly. (To Be Continued)

SPACE LIFE RAFTS

By WALTER B. HENDRICKSON JR.

General Electric has developed two designs for space life rafts. One device would be an Emergency Cocoon in which the astronaut could wait until a rescue ship could come up from the ground. The other is the Manned Orbital Operations Self-contained Escape (MOOSE). Both of these would be carried in suit - case sized protective carriers.

The Emergency Cocoon is basically a permaspective membrane which lets out carbon dioxide and water vapor faster than it does oxygen. The Cocoon weighs 60 pounds and comes complete with a hatch, view port and its own simplified life support system.

A space-suited astronaut would strap it on his back when he abandoned ship. Then he would inflate it and wait for rescue.

MOOSE System

If there were not enough time to wait for rescue the astronaut could use the MOOSE system. He would follow the steps shown in the drawing above.

The space-suited astronaut removes the MOOSE from its container steps into its Mylar plastic bags with its heat shield attached. He then ejects himself from his spacecraft.

Fills With Foam

In about a minute the MOOSE fills with Polyurethane foam. During this time the astronaut readies the life raft's retro rocket and steering controls. He then lines up the craft and fires the retro rocket.

From then on the re-entry is automatic, the MOOSE even contains all the necessary recovery aids including a radio, radar cheat and dye markers. The parachute opens automatically at 20 to 30 thousand feet. The bubbles in the foam will keep the astronaut afloat as long as necessary.

Air Force Project

General Electric developed these two systems under a ten year study contract from the Air Force. The foam has been tested under every condition except in orbit. It has even been foamed with a subject inside it with no ill effects.

The heat shield material has been tested successfully on a conventional nose cone. The entire MOOSE package weighs 254 pounds — just one pound short of fifty pounds more than space-suited astronauts himself.

Let's Go Birding

National Bird Of Iceland

By Emma Mae Leonhard

As we introduce to our readers some of the birds that we were fortunate enough to see last summer during our Audubon tour of Iceland, we feel that it is in order to begin with Iceland's national bird, the Gyr Falcon. This remarkable, and perhaps most famous, bird of prey is uncommon in Iceland. Gyr falcons have become scarcer because the Ptarmigan, upon which they prey, have fluctuated in number and become fewer. There has been strict governmental protection since 1940.

We have read and heard about the ancient sport of falconry in European countries and the Orient. Its obvious cruelty has caused it to be abandoned in western Europe. In the days when hawking was at its height in England, the rank of the individual could be told by the particular species of falcon which he carried on his wrist. The Gyr Falcon was carried by royalty. Its savage and predaacious disposition, swiftness of flight, and extraordinary keenness of vision made it the ideal bird for hunting.

This bird of royalty has a wing spread of 50 to 55 inches. Its legs are muscular; the talons are curved, strong, and very sharp; its wings, long, strong, and pointed. Its general build is powerful; and on the wing, its movements are very quick and certain. In fact, the Gyr Falcon's bravery, fleetness, skill, and determination are leading characteristics which very suitably reflect similar ones of the Icelandier. It has earned the honor of being recognized as Iceland's national bird.

On June 21 we set out from Myvatn with Arni Waag, our local ornithology guide, to see a Gyr Falcon, or maybe even a nest with its babies. We feared that the latter was only a dream, but we trusted our efficient guide.

First we drove a short distance and then courageously set out on our scenic bird hike to the high cliff. We marched past a rectangular green field; wiggled over a rough stretch of lava heaps, with grass growing here and there, and past pseudo-craters along the way and out in the water. We negotiated a steep hill by following a sheep trail. We scrambled through Birch scrub up a steep stretch, wormed our way along a narrow wild valley, almost a canyon, conquered the ridge, and saw before us a great rocky cavern, with a precipitous cliff several hundred feet high.

And then we caught sight of a white-washing design on a great gray perpendicular rock. It was a great white triangular splotch. We were looking at the house number of a Gyr Falcon's nest, the droppings of the owner. Above this white design was a small cave-like crevice with a protruding ledge. Back in this little rock cave were four fuzzy baby Gyr falcons.

We watched with silent excitement the movements of these tawny bundles of fuzz, hoping to see the parents. For over an hour we sat, almost glued to our rocky seats, hoping and hoping. We scanned the clear sky above us, the rocky ledges which framed the sky. No adult Gyr falcons—only black flies appeared. We who had been wise enough to bring head-nets put them on.

Finally we acknowledged that the parents had outwitted us. We retraced our steps more leisurely, studied the plants and flowers, snapping a few pictures; and enjoyed the beauty that spread lavishly before and behind us.

On June 23 on our way to Dettifoss Falls we saw a pair of adult Gyr falcons soaring. High in the sky beauty, grace, and strength were combined. They spoke to us of Iceland, the tenacious island of the North.

HEAVY NECKING—Two giraffes, unusually well equipped for the task, did a little necking on board the ship Maas Lloyd in New York Harbor recently. The giraffes are part of a shipment of 89 African animals who arrived here, bound for zoos around the country. Because of a mixup at their shipping point, the animals will have to be quarantined at Fort Slocum on Long Island for sixty days before being transferred to the Agriculture Department's normal quarantine station at Clifton, N.J. If all the beasts are cleared for hoof and mouth disease, they will be sent to their new homes in the U. S. (UPI Telephoto)

NICHOLS PARK LADIES DAY GOLF NEWS

This past Tuesday was quite interesting. The event for the day was the most 4's and 5's. Well, they sure weren't hard to count. It would be a little embarrassing to tell just how many, but anyway, Fran Chumley won for the first flight, and a three-way tie for the second flight, Liz Topf, Dorothy Busche and Lucille Eberhardt will have to draw to determine the winner.

We had one chip in on No. 5, and Edna Greenler is the proud one for this.

The championship tournament is still in progress, and will be completed by this coming Tuesday, Aug. 23.

Well, girls, there isn't much time left for this season, and I am sure we all feel a little sad that it is almost over. However, those of us who can, will still play through September. We will sure miss all you gals who have to go back to work, but come next summer I am sure you will be back ready to swing again.

This coming Tuesday will be regulation golf—with the longest drive on No. 2, First and Second Flights.

Until then . . . better practice those tee shots.

Magazine model

The Jefferson nickel is the first United States coin design ever selected in an open competition. One of the requirements for each contestant was that he use an authentic likeness of Jefferson in the submitted works. Sculptor Felix O. Schlag offered the winning design, topping 390 other artists.

Schlag did considerable research on Thomas Jefferson and as the deadline approached, was beginning to wonder if he would ever find the one portrait that would help him decide finally on his design. After many days of hunt and search, Schlag visited a secondhand bookstore in Chicago and browsed around the used-magazine section hoping for a miracle—and it happened. He opened an old paperback and found a portrait of Jefferson inside. It was just the one he needed.

The reverse design of the Jefferson nickel is a front elevation of Jefferson's home, Monticello. This subject was the choice of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, a great admirer of Jefferson.

It is interesting to note how the numeral three was involved in the life of Thomas Jefferson. He was the third child of his parents, the third Thomas in his family and he attended three schools. He was the third member of the cabinet, he served three years as our third ambassador to France and was our third president. He wrote the Declaration of Independence at the age of 33. He created the three greatest ideals in history—Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness—and he disliked three things—royalty, nobility and fanaticism.

The designer's initials were never placed on the Jefferson nickel but a movement by an interested group of numismatists caused the initials FS to be placed on all future five-cent pieces.

YESTERYEAR

My Favorite Uncle

My Uncle Ches had many talents.

During what was obviously a lull in his varied and exciting life he farmed my Aunt Lena's 80 acre farm at the northwest outskirts of Mt. Pulaski, Logan county, for 15 years.

And in that time he accomplished many amazing things, some of them bordering on the miraculous.

Each summer, during that time, he ran the threshing machine for my Uncle John Starr and each year scouts from the major threshing machine manufacturers would come — in-cognito — just to watch him and to see how he did such a fine job. These spies were from Case, Advance-Rumley, Avery, Keck-Gonnermann, Nichols & Shepherd — in fact from all the companies.

Now neither my Uncle Ches or anybody else in the threshing ring knew who these men were when they showed up. But, invariably, they couldn't leave without identifying themselves to my Uncle Ches and congratulating him.

They never bothered talking to anybody else. And some of the ignored folks were so offish that they charged my Uncle Ches with stretching the truth more than somewhat.

Big Horses, Little Cows
While he was on the farm he specialized in mammoth Shire horses — some of them weighed a ton — and very, very small but highly productive Jersey cows.

Rosebud was his best cow. I never saw her but it is said that she was tiny, with small bones, dark tan with a black face and an immense udder. It seems that if there were a "Mrs. Universe Cow" contest in those days she'd won easily, for her dimensions were elaborate.

If the grass on the other side of the fence looked better she just went there, easing through the bottom and second strands of the barbed wire fence.

Then when it came milking time she'd be standing on the wrong side of the fence. This added up to considerable aggravation, but no problem since she was so small and my Uncle Ches was so strong. He simply lifted her over the fence and she followed him to the barn.

There she gave so much milk that he couldn't carry it to the house.

The Sweetest Buttermilk
And such rich milk it was, too! To make butter all you had to do was bounce the bucket a time or two and swirl it around a little, and you had the sweetest butter you ever tasted.

One of the major regrets of my life is that I never got to see, and admire, Rosebud.

My Uncle Ches was a wonderful funder of livestock, and made considerable money trading. But once he got stuck.

When the Lang sisters, spinners living at the southeast edge of town, decided to sell out and move to Springfield, Uncle Ches bought their cow, another fine-boned Jersey. This proved to be a big mistake; she wouldn't let him milk her until he put on one of Aunt Lena's dresses, and then everything was O.K.

But this aggravated my Uncle Ches considerably, so he consigned her to a dairy cow sale in Highland, Bond county.

And lost $3.82 in the deal.

No Panic With Him
As a natural result of his many experiences in all parts of the world my Uncle Ches could think fast and well in emergencies. This stood him well in his duties as constable and night watchman, and especially at home.

Not that Uncle Ches was hen-pecked. He just liked to do the washing every Monday morning.

While going to high school the always boarded with Aunt Lena during the winter and early spring months, when the mud roads let you get pretty close to China.

One noon my favorite uncle came home for dinner. He had been loafing up town all morning.

He has a wonderful smile on his face and his blue eyes glistened as he sat down to the dinner table and said:

"There's the darndest story you ever read on the front page of the Chicago Tribune this morning."

I motioned to him to keep the mouth closed, for I knew that Aunt Lena had been across the street to see Aunt Eva and that she had brought the Chi Trib home with her and had read it before fixing our dinner of smoked sausage and fried potatoes.

Now, usually, Aunt Lena paid no attention to any of the earth-shaking episodes brought home by Ches, but this time she said:

"Oh, really, tell us about it."

The vixen.

A Heroic Deed
I tried to warn him again, but he was carried away by

From the Carrollton Gazette: FLOUR MILLS — David Pierson has sold his mill property here to Henry Johnson & John J. Pearis, late millers of Jerseyville, for $12,000, and they take possession in a short time.

On Monday last, Geo. W. Davis was re-elected school director by a very handsome vote. The most important feature, however, in the election was deciding the length of time school should be kept — some wanting six months, but a large majority voting for nine.

After long and determined efforts Mr. F. B. Roberts has received the appointment of postmaster in this town. That his work will be found superior to that of his predecessor is highly doubtful. The office was simply tendered him as a remuneration on account of the vast deal of suffering endured by him while incarcerated in Andersonville prison, which so impaired his health as to make it necessary for him to have a position where heavy labor is not required.

We have heard it rumored that the ownership of our railroad has been transferred to the ownership of the Chicago & Alton road. We are not prepared to say as to the accuracy of the report.

This encouragement and went on, something this way:

"A couple of young brothers out in Ohio bought a surplus Flying Jenny from the army air force for $600. (For the benefit of younger readers the Jenny was a two-seated biplane made of spruce, canvas, glue and wire and powered by a V-8 engine and a walnut prop.)

"They were practicing to put on a show, with the older one flying and the other doing some wing-walking before making a parachute drop.

"Well, they were practicing yesterday and all at once the pilot angled to the right. The plane looked and saw his brother hanging 20 feet below the right wing, with the parachute tangled up in the struts.

"Now, what was he to do? If he landed he'd drag his brother to death.

"He was about 400 feet high at the time. He began climbing, figuring that if his brother dropped he'd be just as dead if he fell 2,000 feet as 400. As he circled around he pulled the strings out of his shoes. At 2,000 he tied the jolly stick a little to the left, then walked out on the wing, pulled up his brother, and got back to the stick with the plane only 75 feet off the ground.

"That guy ought to get the Carnegie medal."

On The Front Page
My heart trembled as Aunt Lena smiled and "You say that story is on the front page of the Chicago Tribune." Uncle Ches replied, "It ought to be on the front page of every newspaper."

Her back was stiff as the proverbial poker and her chin was granite as she walked into the living room and got the paper.

"Oh, Mr. Grubbles," exclaimed a young mother, "shouldn't you like to have a family of rosy children about your knee?"

"No, ma'am," said the disagreeable old bachelor. "I'd rather have a lot of yellow boys in my pocket."

The man who made a shoe for the foot of a mountain is now engaged on a hat for the head of a discourse.

Circumstances alter cases. Red paint, which is a great improvement on the looks of old houses, is but an injury to the cheeks of young ladies.

"Well," said he, pathetically, "I think I feel the better for that little walk."

The art of photography has been brought to very great perfection. Recently at an exhibition of the London Photographic Society, some cabinet pictures were shown, giving views of the various stages of a recent eruption of Mount Aetna. They were taken so near the crater that it is said the camera had to be more than once hastily removed to escape the flow of burning lava. There were also exhibited some photographic views of the volcanic islands which have recently arisen in the Grecian Archipelago.

As a proof of the powers of endurance exhibited by the Prussian soldiers, it is stated that the army under the command of General Herwarth, consisting of about sixty thousand men, performed the distance between Dresden and Vienna, which, as the crow flies, is four hundred miles, in twenty-two days. Had they not been obliged to make a circuitous route, and besides being delayed by two battles and numerous engagements on the way, they might have arrived even in a shorter space of time.

A railroad bridge is about to be constructed across the Ohio river at Louisville, Ky., at a cost of $1,500,000, which will be a great advantage to the inhabitants of the region. It is computed that in the single item of freight between Louisville and New York the gain to shippers will be fully thirty-three percent. The bridge will be without a draw, and so elevated that boats of any class can easily pass under it when the river is at its highest stage.

The widow of the late Hon. Stephen A. Douglas, formerly a Miss Cutts, and now remarried to Major Williams, a major of the Federal Army, will be present at the dedication of the monument to be erected in Chicago to the memory of her first consort.

Major Gee, whose long trial before a military commission in Raleigh, N.C., recently ended in his acquittal, has returned to his home in Quincy, Fla., and has resumed the practice of medicine — his old profession.

His trial cost the Government nearly a quarter of a million dollars. He formerly commanded the rebel prison at Salisbury, N.C.

The government has refused the request of Government Marshall, of Minnesota, that Fort Snelling might be turned over to the State authorities for an asylum for indigent and disabled soldiers. The fort will be used as a storehouse for supplies for the forts in that district.

The population of Toledo, Ohio, has been ascertained by a recent census to be 24,401. Last year's census made it 19,509.

A gentleman on his annual tour of the White Mountains, a year ago, discovered some rocks containing gold near Lisbon, N.H. A company of Hartford and Springfield merchants was formed, which purchased the property in which the ore was found. The stock, worth a year ago $5 a share, now sells for $5,000. Some of the quartz yields $867 of gold per ton, and $159 of silver.

that story!"

I admired my Uncle Ches as he accepted the paper without a tremor, thoughtfully looked over the front page, turned the sheets and looked all the way through the paper.

But I knew he was sunk.

But then he looked the front page over again, smiled and said:

"Hell, girl, you got the first edition."

Aunt Lena flounced out of the room.

I was proud of my Uncle Ches and happy to help him with the dishes.

Experts are luckier than ordinary bridge players because they have the habit of playing their cards so as to give the best chance for success.

It wouldn't be difficult at all for most bridge players to go down one at four spades. They would ruff the third heart and draw trumps. Then they would attack the clubs some way or other and would wind up losing two club tricks. Undoubtedly they would explain that they would have made the hand with a 3-3 club break but no one would be impressed.

An expert would give the hand considerable study and finally decide that the best line of play would be to draw most of the trumps but not all.

At trick four he would play his queen of spades. At trick five he would lead a low club and duck in dummy. A trump return would be most likely whereupon our expert would win in his own hand, lead a club to dummy's king and another club back to his ace. West wouldn't follow but he would not be able to ruff in since the second trump lead would have pulled his last trump. Then South would trump his last club in dummy; come back to his own hand with the ace of diamonds; draw the last trump and claim his contract.

This line of play was not sure to succeed. It would fail if West held the big trump but in that case he would be down the same one trick he would have been down on the first line of play. He would lose his ace of clubs but be able to ruff his last club in dummy.

Suppose clubs broke 3-3? Both plays would succeed. All the expert line did was to give declarer the extra chance.

Abdominal Support

FOR LONGER LIFE

Why do widows outnumber widowers? To the traditional team of work and worry, long branded the guilty pair, weight has been so strongly linked by science that dieting, once a woman's pastime, has become a male preoccupation.

And now comes evidence that it isn't just the paunch, but the sag that brings on the pulmonary—the gridles that give the ladies their girlish figures may also be extending their lives.

The idea that control under shorts, tightening the abdominal muscles and expanding the chest, improve not merely appearance but health isn't exactly a new one. Long before modern drugs came on the market, doctors prescribed abdominal belts for men with heart ailments.

But new research, reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association, tends to show that the new drugs may be no more effective than the old-fashioned belt—or the modern control shorts. Strips of Institute scientists found that "application of the belt previous to exercise reduced or prevented the abnormal postexercise increase in the amplitude of the A-wave of the apex cardiogram," just as popularly prescribed glyceryl trinitrate.

How do control shorts help the heart? One famed medical writer, Dr. P. J. Steiner, writes that it helps the circulation of the blood, and "thereby takes an unnecessary load off the heart. And when one multiplies this by the heartbeats which add up to a few billion in the normal lifetime, one can understand how a simple abdominal support might add years to a man's life."

Many doctors are suggesting the increasingly popular new types of men's control shorts to their patients, and finding back and breathing as well as circulation benefits. The most popular type, Mando, "underwear that slims," meets the Medical Journal's prescription of a belt "tightly applied to the abdomen in such a manner that it does not disturb the patient's respiration or produce discomfort."

Announce Liberal Duck Hunting Laws For 1966-67

WASHINGTON (AP) — The most liberal duck shooting regulations in some six years were announced Friday by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall for the 1966-67 hunting season.

More shooting days are allowed in the Atlantic, Mississippi and Central flyways while Pacific flyway hunters may take a larger daily bag and have more ducks in possession than under 1965-66 regulations.

Goose hunting rules are essentially the same in all flyways as last fall except for changes affecting Wisconsin and Illinois.

All states again will be permitted to have open seasons on ducks of stipulated numbers of consecutive days and must take the usual reduction of 10 percent in shooting days if they select split seasons. Goose hunting seasons may be split without penalty.

The limits on coots will be 10 daily and 20 in possession in the Atlantic, Mississippi and Central flyways.

For all flyways the limits on American, Red-Breasted, and Hooded Mergansers, in the aggregate of these species, are five daily and 10 in possession, of which not more than one daily and two in possession may be Hooded Mergansers.

Details of the regulations for the Mississippi flyway:

The states may select consecutive 45-day seasons for ducks and coot, or a split season of 41 days, between Oct. 8 and Jan. 8. Basic limits on ducks will be four daily and eight in possession.

Not more than two wood ducks, two canvasbacks and two mallards may be in daily bag, with possession limits of four wood ducks, four canvasbacks and four mallards.

During that part of the regular season after Nov. 1, Minnesota and Wisconsin and designated areas in Missouri and Ohio will have a daily bag limit of two and a possession limit of four scaup and ringneck ducks in addition to the basic limits.

There will be a 70-day goose season between Oct. 1 and Jan. 15. The daily bag of geese may not include, in the alternative, more than two Canada geese or subspecies; two white-fronted geese; or one Canada goose of subspecies and one white-fronted goose.

The kill of Canada geese will be limited to 20,000 birds in Illinois, to 14,000 in Wisconsin, and to 25,000 in the Missouri Swan Lake quota area.

In the Squaw Creek area of Missouri, Canada geese may be taken only during the first 30 days of the season and the daily bag will be one and the possession limit two.

WHITE COPS STOCK CAR RACE AT FAIR

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Don White of Keokuk, Iowa, won the 10-mile United States Auto Club late model stock car race Friday at the Illinois State Fair, finishing 25 seconds ahead of Norm Nelson of Racine, Wis.

It was the second race in a row in which Nelson, defending U.S. Auto Club champion, wound up a runner-up to White.

White won the 200-mile late model stock car race at the Wisconsin state fair track in Milwaukee Thursday, beating Nelson by 18 seconds.

Billy Foster of Victoria, B.C., finished third. He was followed by Sal Tovella, Chicago, and J. C. Klotz, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Tebbetts Resigns As Indian's Pilot

CLEVELAND (AP) — Birdie Tebbetts resigned Friday night as manager of the Cleveland Indians. The announcement was made following the Indians' 3-2 victory over Chicago.

George Strickland, Cleveland's third base coach, was named to fill the position the remainder of the season.

At a conference, General Manager Gabe Paul said "Birdie and I discussed the managerial matter late this afternoon and decided that since it was his feeling that for the good of baseball and Cleveland and all concerned, he should not return in 1967.

"I agreed to permit him to leave immediately.

"After he accompanies his family to their home in Bradenton, Fla., he will be available for the remainder of the season for special assignments and will do some scouting and contact work that will be beneficial to the club."

Cubs Drop Slumping Pirates In 11th, 4-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Glen Beckert's third hit drove in George Altman to break an 11th inning deadlock Friday as the Chicago Cubs beat Pittsburgh 4-3, dealing the Pirates their third straight loss.

The defeat dropped the Pirates out of first place, four percentage points behind San Francisco, which played at home against Atlanta Friday night.

The gates opened for the Cubs when the Pirate infield, which gave up six unearned runs in losing to New York Thursday, had a relapse.

With one out, Altman reached base when Don Clendenon tumbled his grounder, the third Pittsburgh error of the game.

Don Kessinger sacrificed and Beckert delivered off loser Elroy Face.

The Pirates, trailing 3-1 in the eighth inning, tied the score on Roberto Clemente's two-run single with two out.

Bob Hendley, who took over for Dick Ellsworth in the ninth and struck out five straight Pirates in one stretch, picked up the victory, his fourth in seven decisions. Face is 5-5.

QUICKY TRAINING PLAN FOR GYMNASTS FACING BIG TEST

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — How much will a short, concentrated period of training help America's international performance in gymnastics, a sport requiring long practice to master.

U.S. coaches and officials hope to have the answer next month after conclusion of a unique one-month training camp at Pennsylvania State University.

Sixteen of the nation's finest gymnasts have been training at Penn State since Aug. 1. The first test will come Sept. 20-25 in the World Games at Dortmund, Germany, when coach Abbie Grossfeld of Southern Connecticut, a former Olympian, leads six of the gymnasts against 31 other nations.

SUES RIVAL COACH AFTER ALLEGED FIGHT

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A Little League baseball coach has filed a $50,000 damage suit against a rival coach as a result of a hotly contested game.

James Zartman alleges that Daley Dobney hit him after a game July 11 at Phoenix grammar school.

Zartman says he suffered a broken jaw and severely injured eye as a result.

Top Rookie? Hodges Says Cassanova

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baltimore's Andy Etchebarren and Boston's George Scott generally are regarded among the leaders for the American League Rookie of the Year award.

To Washington Manager Gil Hodges, however, there's only one choice — the Senators' catcher Paul Casanova.

"Who else," asked Hodges Friday, as though there were no others in the running.

"I wouldn't trade Casanova for Andy Etchebarren," said Hodges when the Orioles' catcher was put up as an early-book favorite for the top rookie title.

Being a member of the league-leading Orioles, Etchebarren is expected to receive much support for the award.

At 247, Casanova is outshining Etchebarren by 12 points and has two more homers, 12. At 12, Etchebarren has four more runs batted in than Casanova.

"Wouldn't trade, wouldn't trade," Hodges said, when the names of Boston's first baseman, Scott, and third baseman Joe Foy were mentioned.

Both are hitting around .250 and Scott, the league's all-star first baseman, has 23 home runs.

"You forgot a name," said Hodges. "Rick Reichardt would probably have received the award if it weren't for his operation."

Before being sidelined for the season after the removal of a kidney, Reichardt, California Angels outfielder, was outshining all the other rookies by 40 points and had 16 homers and 44 rbi's.

Hodges did not say he wouldn't trade for Reichardt. Neither did he say he would. Hodges never got around to mentioning Tom Agee, the White Sox outfielder who is hitting .261.

Minnesota Cops 5th Straight, Edges Bosox 2-1

BOSTON (AP) — Earl Battey rapped a two-run double in the first inning and Jim Kaat combined with Al Worthington for a four-hitter as the Minnesota Twins edged Boston 2-1 Friday night for their fifth straight victory.

Kaat, the American League's winningest pitcher, gained his 18th victory against nine defeats. He gave way to Worthington with one out in the eighth.

Zoilo Versalles led off the first with a single but was forced at second by Cesar Tovar, who then stole second and continued to third on catcher Mike Ryan's bad throw. Les Stange walked Harmon Killebrew and Don Mincher, leading the bases, and Battey delivered his double.

LISTON CAPTURES KO OVER JOHNSON

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP) — Former world champion Sonny Liston knocked out Amos Johnson of Medina, Ohio, Friday in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

Liston felled Johnson with a right uppercut after 1:48 of the third round. He had two previous knockdowns in the second round.

Johnson rolled over on his back and stumbled up as the referee's count reached 10. Johnson dizzily acknowledged defeat.

Liston weighed 218 pounds for his second fight in his comeback attempt. Johnson, a 27-year-old former Navy champion, weighed 200.

Liston, glowering as usual, was much more impressive than he was in his first comeback fight in Sweden. He took seven rounds to knock out German Gerhard Zech in that one, July 1.

UMPS GET NEW LOOK AFTER LUGGAGE LOSS

NEW YORK (AP) — The four umpires for Friday night's New York Yankees-Kansas City doubleheader lost their luggage in a mix-up due to the airline strike and worked the games in candy-striped ushers' uniforms.

Jim Odom, Al Salerno, Larry Napp and John Rice borrowed ushers' uniforms—grey trousers, and red and white peppermint striped short sleeve shirts. They wore borrowed Yankee caps. The luggage was lost en route from Minnesota.

Herrin Advances In Quincy Meet

QUINCY — Jacksonville's and under divisions, was eliminated in both classes, dropping semi-final round in the eighth annual Quincy Open Tennis Tournament's junior singles championship bracket here Friday, while three other Jacksonville youth failed to survive the day's opening round play.

Herrin, second seeded in the 12 entrant field, drew a bye in the first round, while downing Robbie Briscoe of Quincy to gain his semi-final berth.

A victor by 1-6, 6-2, 6-3 margins, Herrin will meet Jon Romp of Quincy in today's morning action.

Two other Jacksonville entrants in the junior singles, Chip Sutphen and Willy Coultas, failed to move through Friday's pairings.

Sutphen captured his first match by a default over Doug Gerulich, but fell 6-0, 6-0 to top-seed Bill Romp in the afternoon action. Coultas, who competed in both the 16 and under, and 18 and under doubles play, was defeated by Johnson and Ellis, 6-4, 6-1 after gaining a bye in the first round.

Six more locals will move into Saturday's action as the men's singles and doubles action gets underway this morning.

Doubles team entrants from Jacksonville are: John Wellman-Bill Kaufmann, Dick Casler-Dick Herrin, and Manuel Velasco-John Hribar.

Wellman, Kaufmann, Herrin and Hribar are also entered in the singles competition.
